Connally Faces Yarborough In Texas Runoff

DALLAS (UPI) — John B. Connally, who has criticized the Kennedy administration since resigning from it, and new frontiersman Don Yarborough will meet in a June 2 runoff Democratic primary election for governor of Texas.

The winner in the runoff is virtually certain to be the next governor of Texas.

Robert Johnson, manager of the Texas Election Bureau, said after the 2 p.m. EDT tabulation of returns that Connally, a former Navy secretary, had 357,749 votes to Yarborough's 268,475 in Saturday's bitterly fought primary.

Jack Cox, a Breckenridge, Tex. oil driller, won the Republican primary in a landslide with 71,150 votes to 11,967 for Roy Whitteburg, a Borger, Tex., rancher-publisher.

All incumbent Texas congressmen won their party's nomination.

Texas hasn't had a Republican governor since reconstruction, so success in a Democratic primary has traditionally meant election in the November general election. But the Republican party claims a resurgence since Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., was elected a year ago.

Gov. Price Daniel, 52, ran third in the race. It meant he failed in a bid for a fourth term. Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, 52, a member of the John Birch Society, finished last among the six Democratic candidates.

"The big issue in the runoff," Yarborough said, "will be whether the governorship is for sale. Despite the fact that John Connally has much more money available to finance his campaign, I feel we have gained tremendously... and with this momentum there is little doubt that I can overtake and defeat John Connally in the runoff."

Yarborough, 36, is a boyish-looking Houston lawyer and the youngest gubernatorial candidate. An avowed liberal, Yarborough is no relation to Texas Senator Ralph Yarborough.

Connally, 45, is from Fort Worth. "I am gratified at the results," Connally said.

Man, Ex-Wife, 5 Children Slain

ZION, Ill. (AP)—Roland Bauer, his former wife and their five children were found dead Sunday and police said apparently Bauer slew his family and then shot himself.

The bodies of Bauer's wife, Alice, 28, and the five children were found in the family's home in Zion, a community of about 11,000 residents some 40 miles north of Chicago.

Police said Mrs. Bauer and her three sons and two daughters had been killed by knife slashes across their throats. Bauer's body was found in a car in front of the home. Police said he died from a bullet wound. A pistol was found on the front seat of the car beside Bauer's body, officers said. The children were identified as: Roland Jack Jr., 9; Beverly, 8; Barbara Jo, 7; Ralph J., 4; and Robin Jay, 2½.

The Bauers were divorced two years ago.

Mac Going To Paris

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has accepted an invitation to visit French President Charles de Gaulle next month, it was announced Sunday.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Macmillan will be accompanied by his wife Lady Dorothy on his trip to Paris, June 2-3.

Strike Of TWA Pilots Averted By Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Airline Pilots Association said Sunday it has reached an agreement with Trans World Airways, calling for an 8 per cent pay increase and additional fringe benefits.

The settlement was reached shortly before a strike was due to start early Sunday morning.

The new 18-month pact calls for a 5 per cent retroactive pay increase from Nov. 22, 1960, to Nov. 22, 1961, the union said, and an additional 3 per cent raise for the seven months from Nov. 22, 1961, to July 1, 1962.

The rate of pay after next July will be 8 per cent over present scales and there will be special adjustments in certain categories.

The agreement also calls for improved vacations, sick leave, insurance, retirement and other fringe benefits, the union said.

No details were given on one of the major issues, a dispute over the makeup of jet aircraft crews, but the union said "contract terms provide a framework for the resolution of jet crew complement problems."

A union spokesman said that both D.J. Crombie, vice president of Industrial Relations of TWA, and Russell Derickson, representing the pilots, expressed satisfaction with the new agreement.

The agreement also includes "improved formulas relating to hours of duty and hours away from base for pilots flying on all equipment and with particular emphasis on jet aircraft," the announcement said.

The pilots had been working without a contract since November, 1960. The new agreement will run until Nov. 6, 1963.

The airline had sought to reduce the number of crewmen on long-range jet flights from four to three men. This was opposed by the union.

Segni Elected President Of Italy In Wild Session

ROME (AP)—Pro-Western Antonio Segni was elected president of Italy Sunday night in a riotous session in Parliament marked by name calling and fist fighting.

The Christian Democrat middle-roader, who is cool to his own party's experiment with a left-leaning government, finally won by 15 votes over the required majority of 428 on the ninth ballot in five days.

He was bitterly opposed by the Communist - Socialist left. But most of a rebel left wing of his own party, which had blocked his election in five successive ballots, was whipped back into line.

Segni's election came only five days before the official date for presidential election, May 11.

In the vote preceding the final balloting, fist fights broke out 337.

Laos Defense Bastion Falls To Pro-Reds

Nam Tha Garrison Retreats; 12 U.S. Advisers Escape

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Pro-Communist Laotian rebels attacking from the direction of the Chinese Communist border two miles away captured the government defense bastion of Nam Tha Sunday under cover of a thunderous artillery barrage, reliable sources reported.

The reports from the front said two assault columns crushed the 5,000-man government garrison and sent it retreating. A 12-man U. S. military advisory group fled by helicopter in the face of one of the most intensive attacks of the Laotian civil war.

Nam Tha has been under siege since late January. As the Laotian government poured in reinforcements it grew to have a Dien Bien Phu-like prestige value. It was at Dien Bien Phu in 1954 that the Communist Vietnamese won a culminating victory of their war against France.

Confirm "Heavy Attack"

American military sources confirmed that the beleaguered Nam Tha garrison was hit with a "heavy attack" Sunday and that the 12 military advisers had flown out. But they had no immediate confirmation of the fall of Nam Tha or that Chinese Communist troops were involved.

It was the second major Laotian defense bastion reported captured within four days. Two battalions reported to include 1,000 Chinese overran Muong Sing, seven miles from the Chinese border and 20 miles northwest of Nam Tha, on Thursday.

The sudden smash into Nam Tha after weeks of siege raised the specter that the royal Laotian army high command may have been right in its frequent claims that Laos is now under invasion from Communist China.

Marks Biggest Defeat

Observers have long known that the town was only lightly screened by the local military in the northwestern direction because it is almost impossible to mount a large-scale attack there except from the Chinese border of from Muong Sing, reported overrun by Chinese and Laotians.

Whoever drove into the city Sunday, their victory represented the greatest defeat the royal Lao army has suffered for a full year — a year when a cease-fire was supposed to have been in effect.

Conservatives Face Vote Test

LONDON (AP)—The Conservative party of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan this week faces its stiffest electoral test in years when 25 million voters in England and Wales choose new local councillors.

The "little elections" for more than 8,000 borough, urban and rural councillors traditionally serve as a barometer of the country's political climate.

They could show if Labor's mounting challenge for power in Britain really is gaining pace and if the nation's Liberals, who have scored several spectacular successes lately, can be counted as a new political force.

All the pointers and the prophets are suggesting that the Conservatives may take a beating. Already this year they have been humbled in seven parliamentary by-elections. In Scotland last week Labor recorded the biggest gains in municipal polling in 25 years. Liberals also advanced seemingly at the expense of the Conservatives.

The voting through England and Wales will be from Monday to Saturday.

Maryland's Poet Laureate Dies At 87

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. Maria Briscoe Croker, 87, of Baltimore, Maryland's poet laureate, died in a nursing home here Sunday after a long illness.

She had been a patient in nursing homes for the past two years, since she broke her hip in a fall, but she continued to write until last week.

Appointed poet laureate in 1959 by Gov. Tawes, Mrs. Croker had published three volumes of poetry—"Vision and Verity," "Tales and Traditions of Old St. Marys," and "Land of the Singing Rivers." Her favorite poets were Tennyson and Shakespeare.

Editor Assails Pentagon Probe Of Newspaper

NEW YORK (AP) — A Florida editor has accused the Defense Department of "censorship by intimidation" through its investigation of Overseas Weekly, a privately published newspaper circulated mainly among U.S. armed forces overseas.

V. M. Newton Jr., managing editor of the Tampa Tribune, challenged also a Defense Department spokesman's statement that "a military organization is not a free society" and therefore has special problems in distribution of reading matter to troops.

This was brought out Sunday in the release by Overseas Weekly of the texts of letters written by Newton to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, to Newton by Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense, and by Newton to Sylvester. Newton wrote in his capacity as chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society.

Overseas Weekly came into the news last year in a controversy with then Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Walker. It accused Walker of indoctrinating troops under his command with far-right political views and of saying prominent Americans had Communist or leftist leanings.

An investigation resulted, in which Walker was cleared of the indoctrination charges but was admonished for speaking disrespectfully of several well-known persons and for seeking to influence voting of soldiers he commanded. He also was relieved of his divisional command. Walker subsequently resigned.

Walker and some other officers charged Overseas Weekly was a scandal sheet running heavily to suggestive pictures and stories of crime and sex. They demanded that it be denied distribution through newsstands on U.S. bases.

As a result of these protests, Gen. Lauris Norstad, U.S. commander of NATO, ordered an inquiry after which Overseas Weekly was allowed to remain on sale to the troops.

Briton, Russia Share Soviet Piano Honors

MOSCOW (AP)—Britain's John Ogdon and Vladimir Ashkenazi of the Soviet Union were acclaimed joint winners Sunday in the Soviet Union's second international Tchaikovsky piano contest. Pretty Susan Starr of Philadelphia shared second prize with Chin Tsung of Red China.

The awards were announced after midnight, 2½ hours after the final pair of the 12 contestants had finished their performances.

Ogdon and Ashkenazi are both 25 and both married. Miss Starr, a blue-eyed brunette, is 19 and her cwiner is 21.

First prize brings 2,500 rubles — about $2,800. Second prize brings 2,000 rubles—about $2,200. One-quarter of the prize is given in foreign currency and the rest must be spent in the Soviet Union.

4 Killed, 3 Hurt In 4-Car Crash On Pa. Turnpike

IRWIN, Pa. (AP)—Four persons were killed and three others injured Sunday in a four-car crash on the Pennsylvania Turnpike five miles west of the Irwin interchange.

Monsieur Clinic at nearby Jeanette said two of the injured were in critical condition. The third was reported in shock and in fair condition.

Three of the dead were Marines from Camp Lejeune, N. C. The fourth was a woman. All were dead on arrival at Monsour.

Police said the car apparently driven by the woman was traveling west at a high rate of speed and went out of control, crossing the dividing strip and striking another car. Two other cars then crashed into the wreckage.

Identifications were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

British Airliner Crash Kills 10

VENTNOR, Isle of Wight, England (AP)—A two-engine airliner crashed in heavy fog on this English Channel island Sunday, killing 10 of 17 persons aboard, the Ministry of Aviation announced.

The plane, a DC3 Dakota chartered by Channel Airways, crashed on St. Boniface Down, highest point of the island near here. It skidded for 200 yards before bursting into flames. Visibility was 50 feet at the time of the crash.

The ministry statement said there were 14 passengers and three crewmen aboard. The plane was en route to Portsmouth from the Channel island of Jersey, near the French coast.

Three fire engines and five ambulances were sent to the scene but had trouble finding the wreckage because of the fog.

The seven injured were taken to local hospitals.

All aboard were believed to be British. The ministry said the passengers were returning from holidays on Guernsey and Jersey. There were six women aboard, including the stewardess.

Revolt Failure Blow To Castro, Venezuela Says

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The crushing of a pro-Communist uprising at Carupano "proves Venezuela will not be a second Cuba," Interior Minister Carlos Andres Perez declared Sunday.

A land, sea and air assault on Carupano—scene of the uprising that began Friday — brought an end Saturday night to the revolt of a 40-man marine garrison and about 50 military policemen.

The government said the revolt leader, navy Cmdr. Jesus Molina Villegas, is under arrest with other rebel officers aboard a navy destroyer anchored off Carupano, about 300 miles east of here.

The fighting that smashed the revolt apparently was brief with rebels surrendering before a three-pronged ground assault and aerial strafing and bombardment.

The government said its forces lost two dead and 10 wounded. Unofficial reports placed over-all casualties between 5 to 40 dead and 30 to 150 wounded.

Perez said lack of military and public support—especially among the peasants—was a factor in the victory over the rebels.

He said leaders of the Communist party and the pro-Castro Movement of the Revolutionary Left had hoped to spark a full-scale revolution to unseat President Romulo Betancourt, a chief foe of Prime Minister Fidel Castro in Latin America.

The extremists were able to turn the heads of a handful of officers," Perez told reporters. "Their failure to gain any popular support, especially among peasants, shows Venezuela cannot be Cubanized."

Officials indicated the revolt could have been defeated earlier, but the military commanders stopped outside Carupano to plan strategy on how to take the city without endangering the lives of the 16,500 inhabitants.

Pope Proclaims Humble Peruvian Mulatto Saint

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope of the old Order of Culatrava, and John XXIII has proclaimed Martin de Porres, a humble Peruvian mulatto, a saint of the Roman Catholic Church and urged modern youth to follow the example of his dedicated life.

A vast throng of 30,000 people thronged St. Peter's Basilica, which was glitteringly decorated Sunday for the four-hour ceremony of canonization.

It included representatives of the major races of mankind, who came here from all parts of the world.

All listened intently as Pope John, speaking in Latin, praised the life of Saint Martin de Porres and described it as an example especially valuable for the youth of today's troubled world.

Martin de Porres was the son of Don Juan de Porres, a knight

New Weapon Toted Aloft By Missile

Nuclear Device Detonated After Polaris Launch

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States set off its first missile-carried nuclear warhead Sunday, launching it high into the Pacific sky from a Polaris submarine.

In a joint announcement, the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department said the weapon was detonated at about 7:45 p.m. EDT in the Christmas Island testing area. It was the fifth in this country's renewed atmospheric weapons tests.

The announcement did not disclose the altitude or force of the explosion. It has been announced previously, however, that the Polaris missile can pack a punch equivalent to 500,000 tons of TNT.

More Efficient Arsenal Aim

One of the big aims in the current tests is to give this country's nuclear arsenal more destructive power per pound.

Of the four previous shots in the series, one equaled one to five million tons of TNT. The others, according to AEC announcements, were less than a megaton but more than 20 kilotons — and believed to have been around 100,000 tons.

The tests, called Operation Dominic, began April 25 with one of the smaller-yield weapons dropped from a plane.

Polaris missiles of the sort presumably used in Sunday's test have a range of 1,200 miles. But it seemed certain the rocket was sent high into the air, rather than over a battle trajectory, to keep it within the test range.

Underwater Shot Expected

In addition to the Polaris experiment, the United States is expected to try out an underwater atomic warhead. The Navy has two new anti-submarine weapons — one carried on destroyers, the other on submarines.

It was believed the Polaris and the underwater shots may be the only actual weapons proof-tests in the current series.

The four earlier American tests were plane-dropped detonations in the Christmas Island area. Still to come are high-altitude explosions to be carried out from Johnston Island in the Pacific.

OAS Bombs Girls' Schools

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — European extremists Sunday bombed two high schools for girls in Algiers and staged other terrorist attacks in continued defiance of the stepped-up French military drive to smash the Secret Army Organization (OAS).

The western port city of Oran, another OAS stronghold, was reported quiet during the day. In recent days, however, OAS commandos have struck mostly under cover of night.

But at 11 a.m. the body of a 22-year-old European youth was dumped from a car on the pavement of a downtown Oran boulevard. On his back was a sign saying: "The OAS is watching. This man was an informer."

Plastic bombs — favorite weapon of the "French Algeria" underground — badly damaged the Pasteur school for girls in downtown Algiers and the Savignan De Brazza school in the suburb of Bab-El-Oued. There were no reports of injuries.

Terrorist attacks across Algeria killed 12 persons and wounded 9 others, raising the toll since Jan. 1 to 4,305 killed and 8,724 injured.

New Look At Regular Forces Set

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The Atlantic Alliance ended its annual spring meeting Sunday with fresh assurances that American and British nuclear-armed strategic forces will remain poised for the defense of the West.

The assurances were designed to allay fears among some North Atlantic Treaty Organization members that the powerful nuclear clear strategic weapons might not be used in case of an attack on Western Europe by conventional Communist forces. These nuclear strategic forces are not normally committed to NATO.

A communique winding up the four-day session also emphasized that NATO would continue to guard against Communist attack with a nuclear shield sharply bolstered by the assignment of five American Polaris submarines to its technical control.

New Look At Regular Forces

At the same time, the 15-nation alliance promised it would undertake a new examination of conventional military forces and report on the question in December in Paris. U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara reportedly urged at a secret session Saturday that the NATO powers beef up their conventional ground forces as an essential part of the joint defense.

The communique took note of exploratory talks on Berlin between the United States and the Soviet Union. This wording, obviously to meet French reservations, was somewhat short of the consensus of approval voiced in the meetings. The French oppose negotiations until the Soviet Union lifts the pressure on Berlin.

The ministers, the communique said, "took the opportunity to reaffirm their attachment to the principles" stated in a December 1958 NATO declaration of determination to maintain the freedom of Berlin and the presence of the West there.

Fewer Controversies

The questions of Berlin and nuclear weapons were main topics at the meeting attended by foreign and defense ministers of the 15-nation alliance. Secretary-General Dirk U. Slikker told newsmen he was a very happy man because the session had been one of the least controversial in years. He acknowledged, however, that there had been some reservations by one member, a reference to France.

The United States announced the assignment Saturday of five missile-carrying Polaris submarines to NATO and promised more when they go into service.

While the nuclear-armed submarines remain under U.S. command, they went under technical control of NATO, meaning they would fall under actual NATO control if war broke out. President Kennedy alone, however, could order the firing of the Polaris nuclear weapons.

V. M. Newton Jr., managing editor of the Tampa Tribune, challenged also a Defense Department spokesman's statement that "a military organization is not a free society" and therefore has special problems in distribution of reading matter to troops.

This was brought out Sunday in the release by Overseas Weekly of the texts of letters written by Newton to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, to Newton by Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense, and by Newton to Sylvester. Newton wrote in his capacity as chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society.

Overseas Weekly came into the news last year in a controversy with then Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Walker. It accused Walker of indoctrinating troops under his command with far-right political views and of saying prominent Americans had Communist or leftist leanings.

An investigation resulted, in which Walker was cleared of the indoctrination charges but was admonished for speaking disrespectfully of several well-known persons and for seeking to influence voting of soldiers he commanded. He also was relieved of his divisional command, Walker subsequently resigned.

Walker and some other officers and some members of Congress charged Overseas Weekly was a scandal sheet running heavily on suggestive pictures and stories of crime and sex. They demanded that it be denied distribution through newsstands on U.S. bases.

As a result of these protests, Gen. Lauris Norstad, U.S. commander of NATO, ordered an inquiry after which Overseas Weekly was allowed to remain on sale to the troops.

Briton, Russia Share Soviet Piano Honors

MOSCOW (AP)—Britain's John Ogdon and Vladimir Ashkenazi of the Soviet Union were acclaimed joint winners Sunday in the Soviet Union's second international Tchaikovsky piano contest. Pretty Susan Starr of Philadelphia shared second prize with Chin Tsung of Red China.

The awards were announced after midnight, 2½ hours after the final pair of the 12 contestants had finished their performances.

Ogdon and Ashkenazi are both 25 and both married. Miss Starr, a blue-eyed brunette, is 19 and her co-winner is 21.

First prize brings 2,500 rubles — about $2,800. Second prize brings 2,000 rubles—about $2,200. One-quarter of the prize is given in foreign currency and the rest must be spent in the Soviet Union.

4 Killed, 3 Hurt In 4-Car Crash On Pa. Turnpike

IRWIN, Pa. (AP)—Four persons were killed and three others injured Sunday in a four-car crash on the Pennsylvania Turnpike five miles west of the Irwin interchange.

Monsieur Clinic at nearby Jeanette said two of the injured were in critical condition. The third was reported in shock and in fair condition.

Three of the dead were Marines from Camp Lejeune, N. C. The fourth was a woman. All were dead on arrival at Monsour.

Police said the car apparently driven by the woman was traveling west at a high rate of speed and went out of control, crossing the dividing strip and striking another car. Two other cars then crashed into the wreckage.

Identifications were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

British Airliner Crash Kills 10

VENTNOR, Isle of Wight, England (AP)—A two-engine airliner crashed in heavy fog on this English Channel island Sunday, killing 10 of 17 persons aboard, the Ministry of Aviation announced.

The plane, a DC3 Dakota chartered by Channel Airways, crashed on St. Boniface Down, highest point of the island near here. It skidded for 200 yards before bursting into flames. Visibility was 50 feet at the time of the crash.

The ministry statement said there were 14 passengers and three crewmen aboard. The plane was en route to Portsmouth from the Channel island of Jersey, near the French coast.

Three fire engines and five ambulances were sent to the scene but had trouble finding the wreckage because of the fog.

The seven injured were taken to local hospitals.

All aboard were believed to be British. The ministry said the passengers were returning from holidays on Guernsey and Jersey. There were six women aboard, including the stewardess.

Pope Proclaims Humble Peruvian Mulatto Saint

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII has proclaimed Martin de Porres, a humble Peruvian mulatto, a saint of the Roman Catholic Church and urged modern youth to follow the example of his dedicated life.

A vast throng of 30,000 people thronged St. Peter's Basilica, which was glitteringly decorated Sunday for the four-hour ceremony of canonization.

It included representatives of the major races of mankind, who came here from all parts of the world.

All listened intently as Pope John, speaking in Latin, praised the life of Saint Martin de Porres and described it as an example especially valuable for the youth of today's troubled world.

Martin de Porres was the son of Don Juan de Porres, a knight

New Weapon Toted Aloft By Missile

Nuclear Device Detonated After Polaris Launch

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States set off its first missile-carried nuclear warhead Sunday, launching it high into the Pacific sky from a Polaris submarine.

In a joint announcement, the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department said the weapon was detonated at about 7:45 p.m. EDT in the Christmas Island testing area. It was the fifth in this country's renewed atmospheric weapons tests.

The announcement did not disclose the altitude or force of the explosion. It has been announced previously, however, that the Polaris missile can pack a punch equivalent to 500,000 tons of TNT.

More Efficient Arsenal Aim

One of the big aims in the current tests is to give this country's nuclear arsenal more destructive power per pound.

Of the four previous shots in the series, one equalled one to five million tons of TNT. The others, according to AEC announcements, were less than a megaton but more than 20 kilotons — and believed to have been around 100,000 tons.

The tests, called Operation Dominic, began April 25 with one of the smaller-yield weapons dropped from a plane.

Polaris missiles of the sort presumably used in Sunday's test have a range of 1,200 miles. But it seemed certain the rocket was sent high into the air, rather than over a battle trajectory, to keep it within the test range.

Underwater Shot Expected

In addition to the Polaris experiment, the United States is expected to try out an underwater atomic warhead. The Navy has two new anti-submarine weapons — one carried on destroyers, the other on submarines.

It was believed the Polaris and the underwater shots may be the only actual weapons proof-tests in the current series.

The four earlier American tests were plane-dropped detonations in the Christmas Island area. Still to come are high-altitude explosions to be carried out from Johnston Island in the Pacific.

OAS Bombs Girls' Schools

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — European extremists Sunday bombed two high schools for girls in Algiers and staged other terrorist attacks in continued defiance of the stepped-up French military drive to smash the Secret Army Organization (OAS).

The western port city of Oran, another OAS stronghold, was reported quiet during the day. In recent days, however, OAS commandos have struck mostly under cover of night.

But at 11 a.m. the body of a 22-year-old European youth was dumped from a car on the pavement of a downtown Oran boulevard. On his back was a sign saying: "The OAS is watching. This man was an informer."

Plastic bombs — favorite weapons of the "French Algeria" underground — badly damaged the Pasteur school for girls in downtown Algiers and the Savorgnan De Brazza school in the suburb of Bab-El-Oued. There were no reports of injuries.

Terrorist attacks around Algeria killed 12 persons and wounded 9 others, raising the toll since Jan. 1 to 4,365 killed and 8,724 injured.

Ticking Device Stirs Rail Bomb Scare

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—The tick-tick-tick was a nerve-jangling staccatto. This, police felt certain, was a real bomb scare, not another screwball report they could dismiss.

The ticking came from a device inside an empty freight car about 75 yards from the Grand Trunk Western Railroad depot here early Sunday.

Officers could see the timing mechanism atop a gallon can which contained a colorless liquid. Workers were ordered out of the area. The depot was secured. All streets within a square block were barricaded. The Army Ordnance Command was asked to rush a demolition expert from Detroit to Flint, a distance of 50 miles.

Trains were flagged down and had to move slowly past the empty box car. Police feared that vibrations could touch off an explosion.

The waiting went on from 11 p.m. Saturday until 2:30 a.m. Sunday. Then, Army Capt. William Hawley arrived from Detroit and stepped into the freight car along the railroad siding.

As police looked on, he studied the contraption. In 30 minutes ticking stopped. He had disarmed it.

Experts determined that the liquid inside the can was not an explosive. They said it was carbon tetrachloride, a widely used chemical.

Examination also disclosed the device was not a bomb. Ripped to the timer was a plunger designed to push the liquid through a slit at the top of the can.

Then railroad employee Richard LeClear heard a radio report of the "bomb" episode. He called police and suggested what they now accept as the answer: The bomb-like device is used to check the temperature in refrigerated railroad cars that carry strawberries.

"It'd scare you if you didn't know what it was," LeClear said.

Boat Accidents Fatal To Three

By The Associated Press

Searches were underway Sunday for three fishermen who were missing and presumed drowned after two boating accidents on the Susquehanna River.

Sterling Winfield Watson, 25, and Charles Windsor Watson, 28, brothers from Westminster, Md., were tossed overboard Sunday when their rowboat overturned in a strong tide near the Conowingo Dam.

A Pennsylvania man, Edward Mayer, 34, (727 Guilford St.), Lebanon, disappeared when his boat overturned Saturday near Port Deposit.

Two of Mayer's fishing companions — Harry Lehman, 47, Pine Grove, Pa., and Adam Soliday, 51, Levittown, Pa.—were rescued by other boaters.

B&O Diesel, 36 Cars Derailed

The rear four cars of the 11-car lead train and the engine and 32 cars of the 95-car following train left the track.

A spokesman for the railroad's Buffalo Division in Punxsutawney said the lead train stopped at the Mosgrove station to set off some cars. The station is the connecting point for the B & O and the Pittsburgh & Shawmut Railroad.

Two crewmen were reported to have suffered minor injuries.

The spokesman said wreck crews began working about two hours after the crash, and it should take about 36 hours to clear the wreckage.

Four Meet Death On Md. Highways

By The Associated Press

A Charles County man died Sunday when he was thrown from his car which had gone out of control on Maryland 225 near Indian Head, State Police reported.

The death of Edmund Ernest Otto, 28, of Mason Springs, Charles County, brought Maryland's weekend traffic toll to four, and the 1962 figure to 156. The highway count for a corresponding period last year was 122.

Three fatalities occurred Saturday — one near Denton on the Eastern Shore and two near Aberdeen.

The Holy Roman Empire existed from 962 to 1806.

Reapportionment Suit To Be Filed

BALTIMORE (AP)—Officials of the Maryland Committee for Fair Representation decided Sunday to go ahead and file a suit asking the court to declare invalid the state's unit vote system.

Theodore G. Venetoulis, executive director of the committee, said the suit would be filed in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court before the May 15 primary—probably Tuesday.

Allred L. Scanlon, the committee's chief legal counsel, said Saturday the group would delay legal action on the unit vote system if the decision to file the suit earlier than May 15 was not based on the refusal of state officials to meet the condition, Venetoulis said.

"We believe it is imperative," he said, "that we file the suit now so there won't be any misunderstanding after the primary."

Hub City Fertilizer Fire Burns 12 Hours

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Fire broke out in three huge bins of fertilizer at a chemical plant Sunday, and burned for 12 hours before firemen could control it.

Robert Lewis, chief of a fire company, estimated damage at fertilizer ignited spontaneously.

The fire started about 6 a.m. at the Central Chemical Co. plant in the west end of Hagerstown. An estimated 75 firemen finally controlled it at 6 p.m.

About 1,500 tons of fertilizer in the bins was damaged by the fire but there was little damage to the building itself.

Sailor Is Shot In Pistol Test

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 22-year-old porter, whose test firing of an automatic pistol—police said—resulted in the wounding of a sailor from Texas, was charged Sunday with assault and shooting with intent to kill.

Police said they also charged Alphonso Cornelius Makell of Baltimore with possessing a deadly weapon and discharging a firearm in the city limits. No bail was set and his hearing in Municipal Court was postponed until June 5.

The sailor, Kenneth F. W. Vaughn, 21, of Bryan, Tex., remained in critical condition Sunday in Mercy Hospital. Hospital personnel said he was operated on, but the bullet was not removed because of his condition.

Police said Vaughn was shot Saturday while riding in a taxi. The cab driver said he heard "a pop like a firecracker" and Vaughn grabbed the left side of his neck. The bullet lodged behind his left eye.

Vaughn was in Baltimore on a weekend pass from a radio school in Portsmouth, Va.

Police quoted Makell as saying he test fired the pistol, a .635 Mauser automatic, before buying it from a man.

Hub City Fertilizer

Fire Burns 12 Hours

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Fire broke out in three huge bins of fertilizer at a chemical plant Sunday, and burned for 12 hours before firemen could control it.

Robert Lewis, chief of a fire company, estimated damage at fertilizer ignited spontaneously.

The fire started about 6 a.m. at the Central Chemical Co. plant in the west end of Hagerstown. An estimated 75 firemen finally controlled it at 6 p.m.

About 1,500 tons of fertilizer in the bins was damaged by the fire but there was little damage to the building itself.

Ann Landers . . .

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll make it brief and to the point. I'm no child. I'm 34. Recently I married a man I'd known only a short time. I was shocked to find that he has the American flag tattooed on his chest. Also, the slogan, "Down with Tojo."

He said it happened when he was stationed in Japan with the U. S. Air Force. He went out one night with a gang of fellows and they got rip-roaring drunk and had themselves decorated.

I consider tattoo work vulgar and cheap and I'd like to know if there is any way it can be removed. He says he'd be willing to have it taken off if I can get the information. Thank you.

—PROVIDENCE
DEAR PROVIDENCE: Tattoo

"decorations" can be removed. Tell your husband to take Tojo and Old Glory to a dermatologist. There are several removal techniques and a skin specialist will decide which is best for him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We've been married for 20 years. Our children are 14, 15, 17 and 19 years of age. None of them shows more than a casual interest in the opposite sex. The three older ones have had a few dates, but the combined number is less than a dozen.

For the past 12 or -14 years my husband's attitude toward sex is that he can take it or leave it alone. He considers sex a bore and would just as soon not be bothered.

I am a warm and affectionate woman but I'm certainly not going to cheapen myself by begging for his attention.

Is it possible that our children have inherited their father's lack of interest in the opposite sex? I would appreciate a reply in the paper where he can read it.

—FROZEN OUT
DEAR OUT: An interest, or a lack of interest, is not "inheritable." Children are influenced by attitudes in the home, however, and if your husband is the deep-freeze type his children may well be imitating him.

On the other hand, if you are such a warm and loving type (your letter doesn't show it) your warmth long since should have thawed out the whole family, including the iceberg who calls himself a husband.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three years ago I fell in love with a married man. He had three children, aged 1, 2 and 3. He left his wife and asked her for a divorce. Begrudgingly, she gave him one.

The court ordered my husband to pay $45 a week support money. His ex-wife's father is well-to-do and could take care of all her needs very nicely. But she insists on bleeding my husband for every dime she can get even though she knows we are having a tough time making ends meet. The ex-lives in their lovely home, drives a new car (which her father bought) and if my husband misses one week's check, her lawyer is on the telephone.

I've written to her to lay off, but she ignores my letters. My in-laws do not speak to me and they have asked my husband not to bring me to their home. They have never seen our son and have told him they don't consider this child any relative of theirs.

I'm an outcast in this family. Is this fair? My only sin was falling in love with a married man. But women do it every day, and people forgive and forget. What can I do to get myself and my child accepted by my husband's family?

—OUTCAST
DEAR OUTCAST: You're fighting a losing battle. You might as well try bailing out Lake Michigan with a teaspoon.

A woman who breaks up a marriage and deprives three small children of a father as you did, should not be surprised when she gets the icicle treatment from her husband's family. And why are you so resentful about the support money? The children's father, not their grandfather, should bear the financial responsibility.

I have neither advice nor sympathy for you.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Why Do You Look "So Nice" Today?

Ah, what a sweet and cheering sound, those spontaneous words, "You look so nice today!" When a compliment like this happens on a day when you don't feel particularly dressed-up, you may wonder what makes you appear so nice with so little conscious effort.

Don't wonder! Find out! Next time you receive an unexpected kudo, take a good look at yourself in the first full-length mirror you can locate—and try to figure out the secret of that day's happy combination of dress and grooming.

You may discover that many important little details are present that you rarely notice, may even skip without thinking. (And the compliment is proof that you shouldn't skip them, ever!)

You may, in fact, hit upon that elusive key to charm, your own exclusive "type"—in the lines, cut and color of your costume, in the style of your hair, in the kind of makeup that brings out your natural good looks naturally. If this seems to be the answer, hang on to it! Test it by repeating the combination again another day with the same costume . . . and on still another day with similar outfits from your present wardrobe.

Here's how to make that fast check for the facts behind flattery: First, consider your well-being, your general physical condition. How much sleep did you have the night before? Is your appetite good, but under control? Whatever your recipe for rest and diet lately, it must be the right one for producing energy and that extra glow. Keep it up!

How about your grooming on the day of The Compliment? You must certainly have had a bath or shower. What scents did you use that morning? How are your nails? What's the shape of your eyebrows?

Have you been using any special creams lately, giving yourself any facial treatments?

When did you shampoo your hair last? Did you have it set professionally or did you do it yourself? Mark the shade, the length, the arrangement of your hair; they're becoming.

What colors are you wearing? How are they combined or contrasted in your costume? What kind of accessories complete your outfit? How about your lingerie? It doesn't show . . . but the fact that it fits—and fits well—certainly shows. Make a mental note right away on the kind of foundation garments you chose to wear that day.

The last question you should ask yourself is the most penetrating. What is the "mood" of your mode? Is your dress fussy, full, ultra-feminine? Is it a straight, simple basic? Is it sportswear or daytime garb? What are the particular features of its design that present you at your best advantage?

If you plan right then to include those features in all fashions in your future, question-time is over for you . . . especially the two hardest questions of all: "What will I buy?" and "What will I wear?"

Burlington Girl Is Chosen KHS "Miss Tornado"

Paula Sue McDowell '62 Beauty Winner

KEYSER — Miss Paula Sue McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Whipp, Burlington, was chosen "Miss Golden Tornado XVII" Friday night in the annual beauty pageant sponsored at Keyser High School by the journalism department.

A senior at KHS, Miss McDowell was selected as the winner over 77 other contestants, sponsored by various merchants and businesses of the city. Three out-of-town persons served as judges.

Runners-up are Misses Mary Sue Huffman, Marie Miller, Charlene Kimble, and Mary Miller. Escorts for the five finalists included Edward Hawkins, Donald Harman, Lynn Grayson, Melvin Evans, and Roger Shallis.

The winner was crowned by last year's queen, Miss Peggy Staggars, who was escorted to the stage by Jonathan Coffman. "Miss Golden Tornado" was also presented a gold loving cup and the runners-up received nosegays. All of the finalists received gifts from area merchants.

Miss McDowell is editor-in-chief of the yearbook, The Keyhole, a member of the Honor Society and the Top Eleven, an ex-officio member of the Student Council, member of K-Ettes, and attends the Burlington Methodist Church. She was selected by movie and television stars as one of the KHS Beauties to be featured in the yearbook and more recently was awarded one of the Benedict Scholarships to Potomac State College.

Miss Helen Martina and William Chidester were commentators for the affair which attracted nearly 900 persons to the KHS auditorium. Eliminations were conducted in groups of from 77 to 20, to 10, to five. The finalists were then asked questions of both a serious and humorous nature during the final judging.

Christopher Franklin played piano selections during the contest and special entertainment was provided between acts by The Six Teens, Huey and the Bom-Bomps, and Miss Barbara Sexton. At the conclusion of the show Hugh Hollingsworth and Lowell Whipp sang a selection to the new queen based on the theme from "The Apartment."

Tri-Towns Plans Service, Parade Memorial Day

PIEDMONT — Memorial Day will be observed in the Tri-Towns May 30 following the annual custom, with a parade comprised of musical organizations, fraternal and civic units and veterans; the decorating of veterans graves and a program on the platform of the Memorial Building at Philos Cemetery.

The parade will form in the morning at a time to be announced, in the vicinity of Piedmont High School and will march to the cemetery where it will disband and the program will follow.

A meeting of the Tri-Towns Memorial Committee was held Friday evening at the home of Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 32, Piedmont American Legion with Commander Russell R. McRobie, chairman, presiding. K-M Post of here and Victory Post No. 155 of Westernport, have jointly co-sponsored the observance for several years.

Mrs. William Fazenbaker, who represented Shawnee Council 1 Girl Scouts of the Tri-Towns acted as secretary.

Wilbur Johnson, president of Luke Local 676, UPP AFL-CIO announced the local went on record to donate $25 toward expenses.

It was decided that the auxiliaries of both posts be invited to solicit funds towards the expenses for the observance.

Norris Bruce, treasurer of the committee for many years read the report of donations and expenses for last year.

Johnson, chairman of a speaker's committee announced he would secure a speaker and Commander McRobie was authorized to purchase markers and flags needed for veterans graves.

The election of officers of the committee will take place at the next meeting Saturday, May 12, at the home of Kelly-Mansfield Post at 7 p. m.

Another meeting will be held Saturday, May 26, at 7 p. m. at the same place.

Playground Group Meets Tonight

FROSTBURG — The Braddock Playground Association will meet tonight at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Rosalind Hochard. Mrs. Florence Crowe will be in charge. Plans for a chapter of the "Frosty Belles" will be made at this time.

The opening date for the playground will also be set.

Return Home

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. William R. Baker, returned to Lincoln, Neb. after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Arch Davis, Frostburg, and friends in Washington, D. C.

Once Again It's
Army vs. Indians

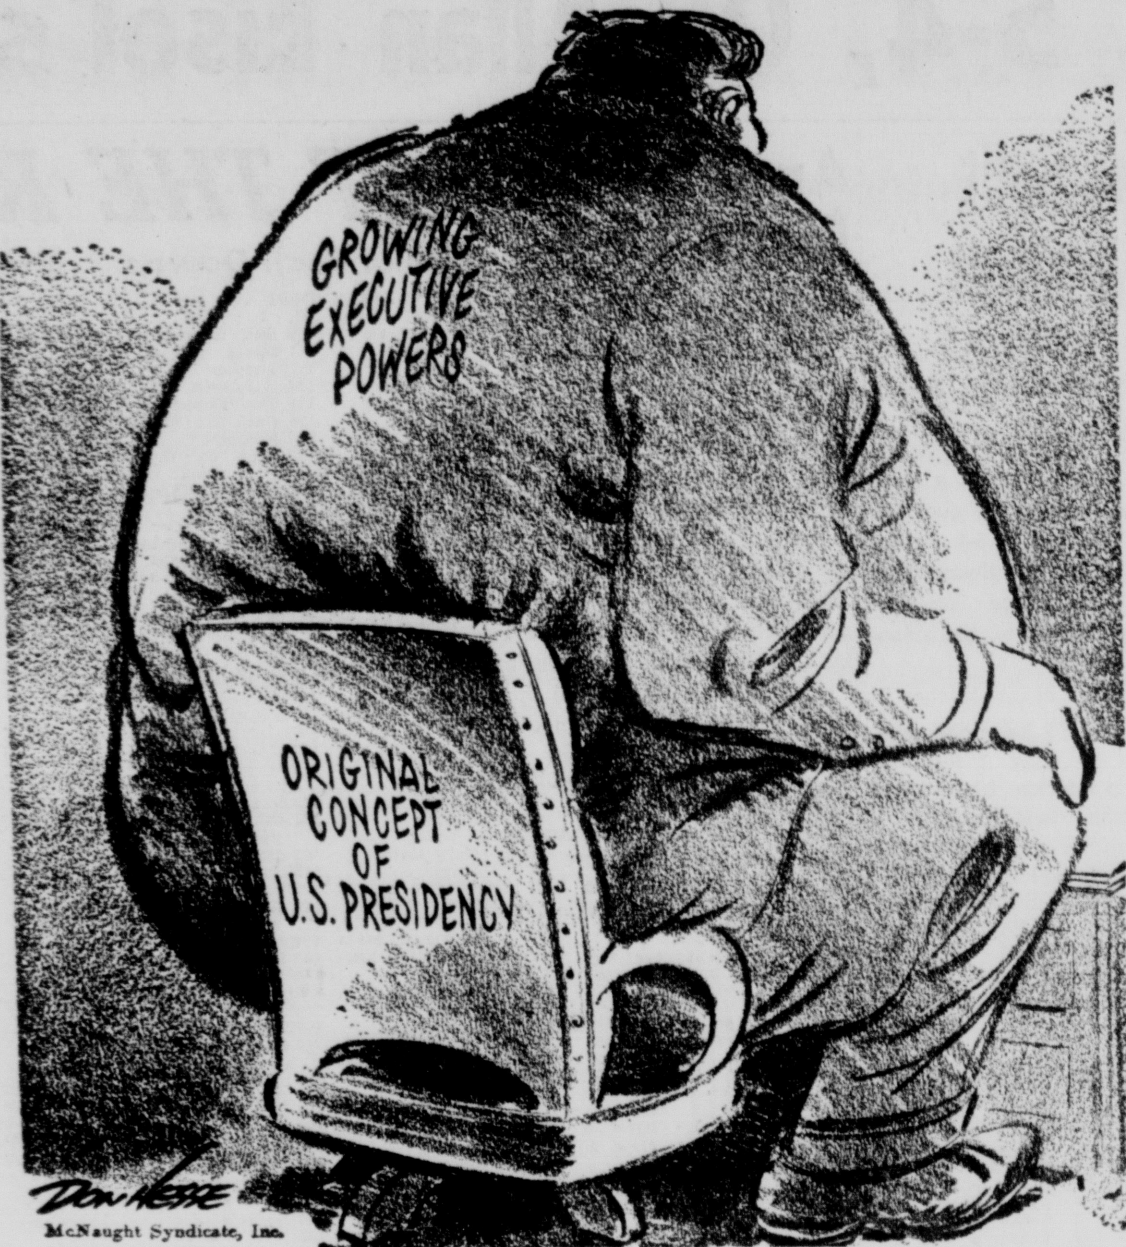

The Army Engineers drive on with their Allegheny River flood-control project in Pennsylvania that will displace the Seneca Indian tribe from the best of the reservation lands granted them by treaty 167 years ago. Those lands, near the New York-Pennsylvania border, were guaranteed inviolate in exchange for the Senecas' help in keeping the peace in the early days of this nation. When the flood-control plan was first broached and Congress began appropriating money for it, the Indians hired an expert to see if there was a way to achieve the same flood protection without inundating their homes. He discovered a geological "accident" which would permit the flood waters of the Allegheny to flow into Lake Erie. The Army Engineers have stubbornly stuck by their own original plans and Congress appears to have confidence in their judgement. But the Senecas' alternate plan has never been given a full-dress review by an independent agency, and when the Senecas challenged the program, the Supreme Court ruled that the government has the right to build its flood control project regardless of the treaty. Now federal and state agents are arranging to move the Senecas to new locations. The Army seems to have ground down their opposition and Congress keeps dishing out the money for the flood-control project. The disturbing factor is that no one in government, including the Supreme Court, has yet faced up to the moral issue involved: the nation's pledged word that a thing like this would never happen to the Senecas.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky
Republican Politics

The Republicans need to win both California and New York in the next Congressional election. Otherwise they cannot make much of a dent in the Democratic control of both the Administration and Congress. In California, Richard Nixon is leading his party's ticket, running for Governor. He is encountering strong resistance on the part of ultra-conservatives who are unusually strong in California. Most of them normally vote Republican. Politicians might have assumed, in their calculations, that their votes would go to Nixon. However, the former Vice President has rejected them and they have resented this attitude. On the other hand, the supporters of the Kennedy Administration and other Liberals prefer Pat Brown, the Democratic Governor. The curious fact is that, at the beginning of the present campaign, it was taken as a certainty that Nixon would be elected and that Brown would be defeated. The tables now seem to be reversed, but the Republicans are still fighting. In New York, the Republicans hope to re-elect Governor Rockefeller, Senator Javits and a large number of Representatives. Governor Nelson Rockefeller has had his ups and downs in popularity. At the present moment, he is considerably down, not only because of his divorce, which has hurt him politically despite all denials, but also because he seems to be without a program and gives the image of being frightened. Whereas New Yorkers are accustomed to divorces and to ugly publicity which accompanies such events, they are not accustomed to their politicians doing it. Rockefeller's fortunes depend upon whom the Democrats nominate to oppose him. The vote of Negroes, Puerto Ricans, Cubans and other former Latin Americans counts for much in New York State. These votes are likely to be Democratic this year although, if Senator Eastland continues to hold up the confirmation of Thurgood Marshall as a Judge of the United States Court, there may be sufficient resentment to cause damage. Thurgood Marshall is a Negro of significance in these parts. On the other hand, the large blocs of minority nationality votes are likely to go Republican in the 1962 Election. Senator Jacob Javits must be expected to appeal to such elements. Senator Javits is a formidable campaigner. His career has been an outgrowth of what New Yorkers like to call "the sidewalks of New York"—the attitudes which brought political strength to Al Smith, for example. In recent years, however, Senator Javits has lost the common touch to a degree. Mrs. Javits, who is socially popular, writes a column, "The Senator's Wife," which does not deal with the homely virtues of the masses, but with parties and fancy foods and great names in the fashion of Elsa Maxwell. How much good such a column will do the Senator in a campaign in which he must boast that he is of "the sidewalks of New York," depends upon who opposes him. There was a time when a man like Chauncey Depew, President of the New York Central Railroad, could be elected a United States Senator. However, that was long ago, when the Anglo-Saxon vote prevailed in these parts and when wealth was respectable. Large numbers of Republicans will not vote for Senator Javits under any circumstances. They may not vote at all, if the Democrats were to put such a person as Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. on their ticket. On the other hand, should the Democrats nominate, either for Governor or Senator, a candidate acceptable to up-state Democrats, the Liberal Party in New York City and the Negro voters, he will run away with the Election. The Conservative Party is newly organized and not formidable. However, it is likely to draw votes away from Rockefeller and Javits. This will be a protest vote and one of its purposes will be to indicate to the Kennedys that there is a Conservative trend in the country. There is a Conservative temper abroad in the land and it expresses itself in diverse ways. The 1962 Election may provide, for voters who cannot go along with either the Republicans or Democrats, another road to follow. Among the New York Conservatives there is a difference of opinion as to whether they should go it alone or seek to capture the Republican Party. They can only succeed in capturing the Republican Party if Rockefeller and Javits are defeated. That therefore will be their aim.

Our Best Chance To Be Firm In Southeast Asia

By Joseph Alsop
BANGKOK, Thailand
Rather soon, the focus of alarm is likely to shift towards this troubled region of the world. The reason is simple. In one way or another, the Communist powers are bound to respond to the challenge of the American commitment in South Viet Nam. This far-reaching commitment has been made with a minimum of public fuss, and by deeds, not words. The American effort in South Viet Nam has been quietly but massively increased. Of this effort, the most formidable figure in the Kennedy administration, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, has taken personal charge, coming monthly to Hawaii to plan the next phase. As though to prove the U.S. means business, American soldiers in the guise of "advisors" have been ordered into combat in an undeclared war for the first time in history. All this adds up, unavoidably and irrevocably, to an implied American commitment to repulse the Communist attack on South Viet Nam at all costs. Since the intensification of the American effort began to be noticed, there have been many reports of the marked improvement in the atmosphere and outlook in South Viet Nam. Up to a point, these reports are undeniably correct. give better communications to the vulnerable villages, and other kinds of expensive hardware are cranked into the equation. The truth is that the problem in South Viet Nam is not likely to be solved in isolation. It needs to be considered as only one part, though the most important part, of the larger problem of Communist aggression in Southeast Asia. Here in Thailand, there is another part of the same problem, which the U.S. policymakers have also tried to solve in isolation. The Thai government is convinced that unless the U.S. alters its policy in neighboring Laos, the end result will be handing Laos to the Communists with a red ribbon tied around it. Some months ago, the disquiet in Bangkok became so acute that the Thais were on the verge of publicly proclaiming their loss of faith in the U.S. by flatly refusing to attend further meetings of the U.S.-sponsored SEATO organization. To be blunt about it, the Thais were then bought off. The able Foreign Minister, Thanat Khoman, visited Washington, and brought home with him what amounts to a direct U.S. military guarantee of Thailand. This is another very big American commitment, which very few people have noticed. Because they now have their guarantee, the Thais have ceased to oppose the U.S. policy in Laos. Meanwhile, the Communists are using the opposite of the piecemeal American approach. From the beginning, the first target of their aggressive design in Southeast Asia has been Laos, the country least able to resist their pressure and the country which is also the road to both Thailand and South Viet Nam. There has been an uneasy lull in Laos, since the proclamation of a ceasefire and the beginning of the American drive, as yet fruitless, to install a "neutral" Laotian government which the Communists plainly hope to control. But the lull may now be nearing its end. The principal alleged "neutralist" in Laos and Prime Minister designate of the "neutral" government, Prince Souvanna Phouma, has gone off to Paris for an indefinite stay. The "neutralist" military leader, Gen. Kong Le, has been invited to Moscow. Soviet Ambassador Abramov has also left Laos for Moscow, for prolonged consultations. It seems a fair bet, therefore, that the Communist offensive in Laos may be resumed at the end of the rainy season, if the U.S. has not managed, in the interval, to squash the Laotian anti-Communists into the "neutral" government they rightly fear. If the Communist offensive in Laos is resumed and succeeds, its success will be due to one factor and one factor only—the flagrant invasion of Laos by North Vietnamese army units. Thus far, this invasion of Laos by North Vietnamese regular troops has been winked at by the U.S. policymakers, because of their total preoccupation with their long-shot bet on a "neutral" Laos. But now that the odds are something like 50 to 1 against true Laotian neutrality, what course will be adopted? The answer, surely, should be suggested by the American commitment in South Viet Nam, plus the American commitment to Thailand, plus the gravely weakened condition of Communist China. In principle, there is no better reason to tolerate naked Communist invasion in Laos than in South Viet Nam or Thailand. In practice, the risks are much reduced because the added strain of any serious Chinese external adventure will almost certainly touch off an internal explosion—which can perhaps occur anyway. In sum, this is the moment to be firm, if the U.S. really means business in Southeast Asia.

So it is with House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck Jr. and his Democratic counterpart, Majority Leader Carl D. Albert. Each receives countless invitations to be present for cocktails and/or dinner by national groups, societies and organizations that dearly love to work both sides of the street. Both Halleck and Albert desire to show up at many of them, particularly if they believe the other is going to attend. They've now reached a pact. Each keeps in touch with the other and they mutually arrive at decisions about which functions to attend and which to decline.

Results Of Unchecked Ringworm Of The Nails

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen
"Dear Dr. Van Dellen: Please describe ringworm of the toe nails. I think I have it. What is the cure? If it is not checked, what are the results?" This infection varies greatly from a hardly detectable white or yellowish discoloration along the edge to complete disintegration of the nail. Somewhere between these extremes the nail becomes brittle, lusterless, discolored, ridged, or pitted. The under surface may be raised by heaped up debris. Diagnosis is made by scraping or removing bits of the diseased nail and studying the material under a microscope. Ringworm is the cause when fungi are seen in this material. Before going on, I would like to ask our inquirer to consult a physician who will run this test. This is the only way to find out. We could be very specific in answering the rest of the questions had our reader been certain of the diagnosis and started the letter "I have a proved case of ringworm of the nails." This is said because fungal infections of nails are firmly entrenched in the nail bed and plate as well as in the adjacent tissues. The root is not involved because these fungi are not capable of invading living tissues. Antifungal ointments and solutions are of some value but best results are obtained when they are used in conjunction with the antirringworm tablets. Removing the nails offers temporary relief but rarely is followed by lasting results. The nails should be trimmed to avoid mechanical pressure and it helps to go barefoot or to wear open-toed or well aerated shoes. The disease is not fatal, if it

Once upon a time there was a terrible, terrible week when Jackie Gleason didn't touch a single drop of liquor, Gleason's friend Toots Shor took this as a personal affront, but Gleason blamed it all on his doctor. "He's put me off the stuff for life," he explained sadly. "Foolish and foolish," scoffed Shor. "I'll send you to my doctor. He'll let you drink all you want." The next day Gleason still was on the wagon. "Didn't you go to see my doctor?" demanded Toots Shor. "I went," nodded Gleason, "but I couldn't get in. The office was too crowded." Salvador Dali, the eccentric artist, can come right down to earth when occasion warrants. At the Stork Club recently, for example, he was heard earnestly assuring a beautiful young hat check girl, "Never take a fur coat from an amorous customer, my dear. A fur coat is like a painting by me: you have to explain both to your mother."

Paired off in the dispute are Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona, 84, and Rep. Clarence Cannon of Missouri, 83, respective chairmen of the Senate and House Appropriations Committees. Their current row broke out when Cannon "requested" that half the joint conferences of the two committees be held on the House side of the Capitol. "I really don't see any need for it," replied Hayden. "The joint meetings have always been held on our side while I have been here, and long before that. It has worked out all right. Besides, you originate all the appropriations bills in the House." "Well, that's according to the Constitution, but the Constitution doesn't say anything about requiring our conferees to go over to your side every time there is a joint conference," sat back Cannon. HOLLYWOOD, Fla. — We're in our room now, so it's safe to kick the shoes off and relax. The little ones are in the room next door, and my father is in the room beyond that. There is nothing in the world as fascinating as traveling with little ones, and a man of 78. It is anything but dull. At Idlewild, my wife, Kelly, was checking the baggage at National Airlines when she picked up a small valise which almost tore her arm from the socket. "What," she said to my father, "is in that one?" He looked slightly irritated. "My medicine," he said. "Why?" "Nothing," she said, "what have they got you on now—iron?" Big John is becoming slower of foot and faster of mind. He misses nothing, is interested in everything, and has opinions. I can recall the days when it was possible to start an Irish Rebellion by merely observing that it was a nice day. His brows are snowy, and his head is down and he walks a few feet and says: "I'm winded again." We took him on a jet anyway. He's game. He wanted a window seat, and he got it. He also wanted a highball—"double, if you don't mind." The children—Karen, 9, and Kathleen, 7, are pretty blondes, and very feminine, and they too wanted window seats. So did Kelly. So, although the trip from New York to Miami is only two hours and a few minutes, we played musical chairs all the way. The stewardess was serving the double hooker to Kathleen and the Coke to my father, and everybody on the plane was confused except us. We knew where we were all the time. When we got to Miami, I rented a car from Hertz — a convertible—and was halfway out of the airport before I realized that both children were standing in the back seat. They were tossing little goodies at the cars following us. We arrived at the Diplomat Hotel sort of worn. At least, Kelly and I were tired. The other looked great. Kelly was pouting because the girls never need the services of a bathroom unless we are on the highway halfway between nowhere. I told her that when my Ginny and Gayle were little it was exactly the same, and that I was glad that the rules are the same. The Diplomat has a big classy lobby and we walked in as though we belonged. I signed the register with what I thought was a flourish and Karen said: "Mommy, didn't you use to work here in the cellar?" Some of the eyebrows behind the desk went up to the hairline. My father coughed politely and one of his zippers slid down. Kelly did work here once. She was a stenographer who worked for Don Cuddy in the publicity department. "Not the cellar," Kathleen said. "It's much nicer to stay the basement." It is really a subterranean mezzanine with coffee shop, jewelry shop, photo studio, newsstand and so forth.

The Army Engineers drive on with their Allegheny River flood-control project in Pennsylvania that will displace the Seneca Indian tribe from the best of the reservation lands granted them by treaty 167 years ago.

Republican Politics

The Republicans need to win both California and New York in the next Congressional election. Otherwise they cannot make much of a dent in the Democratic control of both the Administration and Congress.

The curious fact is that, at the beginning of the present campaign, it was taken as a certainty that Nixon would be elected and that Brown would be defeated. The tables now seem to be reversed, but the Republicans are still fighting.

In New York, the Republicans hope to re-elect Governor Rockefeller, Senator Javits and a large number of Representatives. Governor Nelson Rockefeller has had his ups and downs in popularity. At the present moment, he is considerably down, not only because of his divorce, which has hurt him politically despite all denials, but also because he seems to be without a program and gives the image of being frightened. Whereas New Yorkers are accustomed to divorces and to ugly publicity which accompanies such events, they are not accustomed to their politicians doing it.

These votes are likely to be Democratic this year, although, if Senator Eastland continues to hold up the confirmation of Thurgood Marshall as a Judge of the United States Court, there may be sufficient resentment to cause damage. Thurgood Marshall is a Negro of significance in these parts.

On the other hand, the large blocs of minority nationality votes are likely to go Republican in the 1962 Election. Senator Jacob Javits must be expected to appeal to such elements. Senator Javits is a formidable campaigner. His career has been an outgrowth of what New Yorkers like to call "the sidewalk walks of New York"—the attitudes which brought political strength to Al Smith, for example.

In recent years, however, Senator Javits has lost the common touch to a degree. Mrs. Javits, who is socially popular, writes a column, "The Senator's Wife," which does not deal with the homely virtues of the masses, but with parties and fancy foods and great names in the fashion of Elsa Maxwell. How much good such a column will do the Senator in a campaign in which he must boast that he is of "the sidewalk walks of New York," depends upon who opposes him.

There was a time when a man like Chauncey Depew, President of the New York Central Railroad, could be elected a United States Senator. However, that was long ago, when the Anglo-Saxon vote prevailed in these parts and when wealth was respectable.

Large numbers of Republicans will not vote for Senator Javits under any circumstances. They may not vote at all, if the Democrats were to put such a person as Franklin D. On the other hand, should the Democrats nominate, either for Governor or Senator, a candidate acceptable to up-state Democrats, the Liberal Party in New York City and the Negro voters, he will run away with the Election.

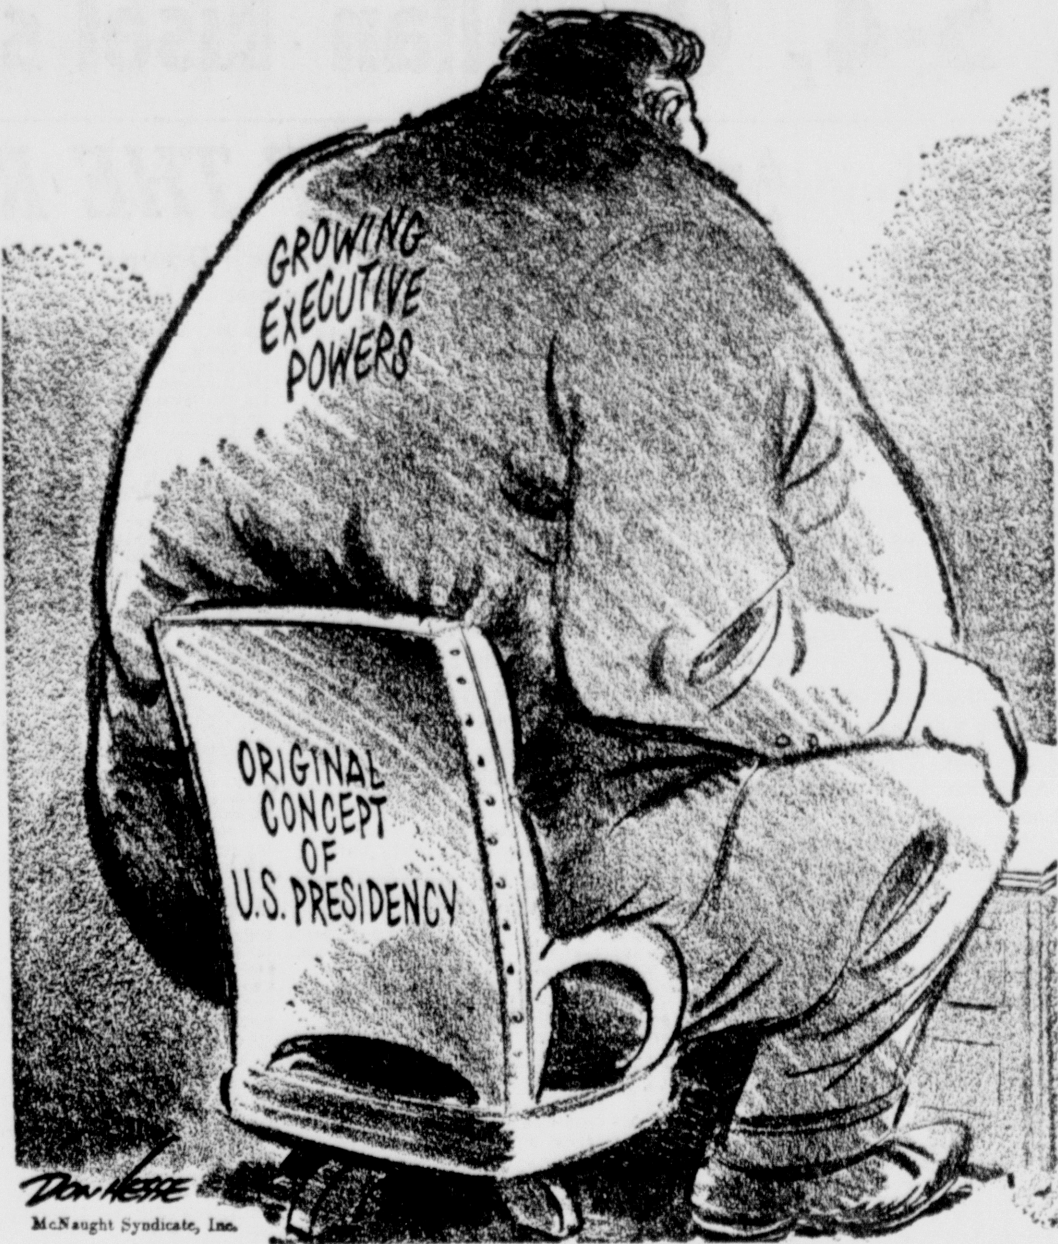

The Conservative Party is newly organized and not formidable. However, it is likely to draw votes away from Rockefeller and Javits. This will be a protest vote and one of its purposes will be to indicate to the Kennedys that there is a Conservative trend in the country.

There is a Conservative temper abroad in the land and it expresses itself in diverse ways. The 1962 Election may provide, for voters who cannot go along with either the Republicans or Democrats, another road to follow.

Among the New York Conservatives there is a difference of opinion as to whether they should go it alone or seek to capture the Republican Party. They can only succeed in capturing the Republican Party if Rockefeller and Javits are defeated. That therefore will be their aim.

Since the intensification of the American effort began to be noticed, there have been many reports of the marked improvement in the atmosphere and outlook in South Viet Nam. Up to a point, these reports are undeniably correct.

For the first time in years, the American political and military activities in South Viet Nam have intelligent, united, and energetic top-level leadership. At the mid-level, impressive, combat-ready American officers have largely replaced the pusillitimid re-treads whom the U.S. Army so often and so strangely selects to advise our allies overseas.

At the operational level, finally, the new U.S. commander, Gen. Paul Harkins, is showing a refreshing and wholly novel grasp of the central fact of the guerrilla war. This is the fact that the war is mainly being fought in the boondocks—in the Vietnamese provinces—by the civil guardsmen and the soldiers of the local militia, who had received no U.S. aid whatever until very recently.

All of this adds up to solid progress. It has brought a corresponding lift of Vietnamese morale and fighting spirit. Nonetheless, this kind of progress will not insure victory, even when countless helicopters, radios to

Octogenarian Deadlock

A row between a Senator and a Congressman, aged 84 and 83, as to who shall walk farthest across the Capitol building, may delay the adjournment of Congress.

Paired off in the dispute are Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona, 84, and Rep. Clarence Cannon of Missouri, 83, respective chairmen of the Senate and House appropriations Committees.

Their current row broke out when Cannon "requested" that half the joint conferences of the two committees be held on the House side of the Capitol.

"I really don't see any need for it," replied Hayden. "The joint meetings have always been held on our side while I have been here, and long before that. It has worked out all right. Besides, you originate all the appropriations bills in the House."

"Well, that's according to the Constitution, but the Constitution doesn't say anything about requiring our conferees to go over to your side every time there is a joint conference," sat back Cannon. "Since the East Front of the Capitol was extended, we have a new room on the House side, where half of the meetings should be held.

"It is only a few steps away," added the 83-year-old Cannon. "Surely, your members wouldn't object to walking that far."

Will Walk Halfway—"If"

"I'll have to take it up with my committee," snapped the 84-year-old Hayden. He did so, and later sent a terse letter to Cannon, reporting that the Senate Committee had voted to approve Cannon's suggestion, but with a very important proviso—namely that the Senate could originate action on half of the appropriation measures passed every session.

Hayden contended that there was nothing irregular about this. He maintained that while the Constitution required "revenue" (tax) bills to originate in the House, it was vague as to whether appropriation bills should be passed first by the House or Senate.

The Hayden compromise was received like a ton of ice by a closed-door meeting of Cannon's appropriation committee.

"They still want us to bow and scrape to them," irately declared John Taber, 82-year-old Republican from New York. "They even want us to flout tradition and the intent of the Constitution. I'll never agree to that."

The octogenarian deadlock continues. Since appropriation bills must be passed, it may stall Congress beyond an August adjournment.

Capital Chaff

Dr. Frederick Seitz, new president of the National Academy of Sciences, has warned urgently that the United States must overcome the Soviet lead in oceanographic research. Russia is further ahead of the United States in exploring the depths of the sea than the heights of space—which could give Russia an advantage in submarine warfare. . . . Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington has been badgering Congress with the same warning for some time. . . . Dr. Seitz incidentally, is the same scientist who was ridiculed after World War II for warning that Russia would develop the atomic bomb before 1950. (The Soviets exploded their first A-bomb in 1949.)

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. — We're in our room now, so it's safe to kick the shoes off and relax. The little ones are in the room next door, and my father is in the room beyond that. There is nothing in the world as fascinating as traveling with little ones, and a man of 78. It is anything but dull.

At Idlewild, my wife, Kelly, was checking the baggage at National Airlines when she picked up a small valise which almost tore her arm from the socket. "What," she said to my father, "is in that one?" He looked slightly irritated. "My medicine," he said. "Why?" "Nothing," she said, "what have they got you on now—iron?"

Big John is becoming slower of foot and faster of mind. He misses nothing, is interested in everything, and has opinions. I can recall the days when it was possible to start an Irish Rebellion by merely observing that it was a nice day. His brows are snowy, and his head is down and he walks a few feet and says: "I'm winded again."

We took him on a jet anyway. He's game. He wanted a window seat, and he got it. He also wanted a highball—"double, if you don't mind." The children—Karen, 9, and Kathleen, 7, are pretty blondes, and very feminine, and they too wanted window seats. So did Kelly. So, although the trip from New York to Miami is only two hours and a few minutes, we played musical chairs all the way.

The stewardess was serving the double hooker to Kathleen and the Coke to my father, and everybody on the plane was confused except us. We knew where we were all the time. When we got to Miami, I rented a car from Hertz—a convertible—and was halfway out of the airport before I realized that both children were standing in the back seat. They were tossing little goodies at the cars following us.

We arrived at the Diplomat Hotel sort of worn. At least, Kelly and I were tired. The other looked great. Kelly was putting because the girls never need the services of a bathroom unless we are on the highway halfway between nowhere. I told her that when my Ginny and Gayle were little it was exactly the same, and that I was glad that the rules are the same.

The Diplomat has a big classy lobby and we walked in as though we belonged. I signed the register with what I thought was a flourish and Karen said: "Mommy, didn't you use to work here in the cellar?" Some of the eyebrows behind the desk went up to the hairline. My father coughed politely and one of his zippers slid down.

Kelly did work here once. She was a stenographer who worked for Don Cuddy in the publicity department. "Not the cellar," Kathleen said, "it's much nicer to say the basement." It is really a subterranean mezzanine with coffee shop, jewelry shop, photo studio, newsstand and so forth.

Mother was busy trying to act like a hotel guest, rather than a cellar graduate.

The bellboy showed us to our rooms, and the musical chairs started all over again. Dad wanted everybody to come into his room to view the beauty of the sea, even though we were all looking at the same ocean from our own little porches. The girls found out that the rooms had connecting doors, so they chased each other through the doors, out the front, into the hall, and back into other rooms.

Big John said he could not sleep on the bed, even though he had two of them in his room. "I need something that will keep me sitting up," he said. So we got Jean Suits on the phone and he called the housekeeper, and the housekeeper sent a porch glider. Now my father has two beds, with a glider between them, and when the maid walked in to turn down the bedclothes, she began to look shaken.

His medicines are all over the room, and you would have to be a Chinese pharmacist to decipher what they're for. Some will make you do it, and some will make you stop whatever you're doing. The girls have their room littered with dolls, and beachballs. They are the only guests who have the television set and the radio going at full volume simultaneously.

My father calls for a newspaper to be delivered in his room—252—but, by the time the bellman arrives, Dad is in our room. The bellman tries our room as Dad goes through the connecting door into the girls' room because he has become their bosom buddy and the three of them plot against the rest of us. The bellman never quite makes it, but he tries.

The family has barely arrived, but already the hired hands are asking the kids: "How long you staying, honey?" with the sweet sad smile. There is a bottle of vodka which has bounced between the two end rooms so many times that no one knows where it is. My guess is that it went out with the clothes to be dry cleaned.

I have a feeling that it is going to be missed, more than all the medicines.

Once upon a time there was a terrible, terrible week when Jackie Gleason didn't touch a single drop of liquor. Gleason's friend Toots Shor took this as a personal affront, but Gleason blamed it all on his doctor. "He's put me off the stuff for life," he explained sadly. "Foolish and foolish," scoffed Shor. "I'll send you to my doctor. He'll let you drink all you want."

The next day Gleason still was on the wagon. "Didn't you go to see my doctor?" demanded Toots Shor. "I went," nodded Gleason, "but I couldn't get in. The office was too crowded."

Mantle Cracks 3 Homers As Yanks, Nats Divide

Bouton Wins 8-0 In Nightcap After Senators Score 4-2

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mickey Mantle blasted three home runs Sunday and Roger Maris added one but the New York Yankees still had to settle for a split with an 8-0 victory over the Washington Senators in the nightcap, after dropping the opener, 4-2.

Mantle, who now has a total of six homers, hit two of them in the nightcap to help rookie Jim Bouton earn his first victory in his first major league start.

Bouton limited the Senators to seven hits and never permitted a runner to reach third base until the ninth inning.

The Senators' victory in the opener was their first in six games with the Yankees this season and was credited to rookie Dave Stenhouse, also making his first major league start.

Mantle's two-run homer in the fourth inning gave loser Ralph Terry a 2-1 margin until the eighth when Gene Woodling tied the score with a pinch homer.

Mount Storm Opens With Double Win

Mount Storm's defending champions got away to a flying start in the Town and Country Softball League of Garrett County by taking both ends of a doubleheader from Loch Lynn yesterday by scores of 5-4 and 19-2.

Richard Smith, who won his own game by hitting a grand slam homer in the 8th inning of the opener, also got credit for a nightcap in which he hit three round-trippers. Ron Kuhn, Kofke and Clark also hit for the circuit in the second game.

White Rock won a pair from Swallow Falls, 7-5 and 14-9. Oakland whipped the National Guard twice, 7-1 and 4-0, and Crellin routed Kitzmiller by scores of 21-5 and 15-2.

Andy Lewis hit a homer with the bases full for Swallow Falls in the opening game and Dan Garrett of White Rock belted a four-bagger in each game.

The scores:

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND

JANET V. HARE, 223 South Smallwood Street, Cumberland, Maryland

GERALD D. HARE, 223 South Smallwood Street, Cumberland, Maryland

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii for the Plaintiff, Janet V. Hare, of Allegany County, Maryland, against her husband, Gerald D. Hare, whose last known address was 223 South Smallwood Street, Cumberland, Maryland.

The Bill of Complaint states that on the 21st day of June, 1952, the parties were married in Cumberland, Maryland, and that on January 3, 1960, the said Gerald D. Hare deserted and abandoned the Plaintiff without notice and is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

The Plaintiff seeks custody of three minor children born as a result of the marriage, and that on January 3, 1960, the said Gerald D. Hare deserted and abandoned the Plaintiff without notice and is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

It is thereupon this 27th day of April, 1962, Ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once each week for four successive weeks before the 28th day of May, 1962, giving notice to the said Gerald D. Hare of the proceedings in this case, and that if he does not appear in person or by solicitor, on or before the 28th day of May, 1962, to show cause, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Hodges' Single Gives Mets 7-5 Victory In 12th

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Gil Hodges' two-run single with the bases loaded in the 12th inning carried New York to a 7-5 victory over Philadelphia Sunday, snapping the Phillies' five-game winning streak and halting the Mets' losing skid at four.

Hodges' deciding blow came off Art Mahaffey, fourth Phils pitcher, and brought home Rod Kohn and Gus Bell with one out.

The game, delayed 56 minutes by rain in the eighth inning, was scheduled as the opener of a doubleheader but the teams were unable to play the nightcap because a Pennsylvania law does not permit the second game of a Sunday twin-bill to start after 5:59 p.m. EDT.

Chisox Split With Boston

Lose Opener 3-2; Lowen Saves 2d, 5-3

BOSTON (UPI) — Veteran reliever Turk Lowen shut off a ninth inning Boston rally to give the Chicago White Sox a 5-3 victory and a split with the Boston Red Sox after the White Sox had dropped the opener of their doubleheader, 3-2.

Lowen, fourth Chicago pitcher in the inning, struck out three Boston batters to give White Sox starter Joel Horlen his second victory against two losses.

Gene Conley's pitching and a clutch eighth inning single by Gary Geiger gave Boston the first game victory. Geiger singled home Jim Paggiarino, who had doubled, to break a 2-2 tie and gave Conley his third win against two defeats.

Angels Belt Birds, 15-7

Lee Thomas Collects Five Hits For L.A.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Angels unleashed a 19-hit attack Sunday led by outfielder Lee Thomas with five hits to score a 15-7 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

But the biggest blow of the game came in a losing cause as Baltimore's Brooks Robinson hit a grand slam homer in the third inning for the Orioles to momentarily tie up the score 5-5 and send Angels starter Ken McBride to the showers.

In the fifth inning Los Angeles jumped on three Baltimore pitchers for six runs on five hits as 11 men went to bat before the side was retired.

Palmer Birdies Final Hole To Win Tourney of Champions With 276

Fights Off Casper's Bid To Cop Prize

Wins $11,000 With 24-Foot Putt; Four Challengers Fail

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The incomparable Arnold Palmer, fighting off a brilliant stretch run by Billy Casper and a trio of others, won the rich Tournament of Champions for the first time Sunday with a birdie on the 18th hole for a 276 score.

All tied up with Casper going into the final hole, the iron-nerved Palmer calmly rolled in a curling 24-foot putt for the birdie on the 18th hole to chalk up a 68 for the round to finish one stroke ahead of his playing partner.

The victory, Palmer's third in his last four tournaments, was worth $11,000 and Casper picked up $5,800 for second place.

The star from Latrobe, Pa., now has won the Masters, Texas Open and this exclusive event in the space of five weeks.

It was a smashing windup to a tournament that was so closely contested that four men were tied for the lead the first day; three the second. On the third round, Palmer finally pushed to the front. He was never worse than a tie for the lead from the very start.

Leads In Winnings
Palmer had rounds of 69-70-69-68. He now has $52,308 in winnings this year — leading all other golfers by a wide margin.

Some of the other entries in the field went down fighting. Earl Stewart, a 40-1 shot from Dallas, Tex., was right in the running and with only seven holes to go was tied for the lead. Doug Sanders, Ojai, Calif., also was only one shot off at this time.

Stewart finished with a 279 for third place and Sanders came next with a 280.

And once during the round, Jay Hebert, who had started seven strokes off the pace, went six under par on five holes and was only one shot away. Jay finished with a 283 for fifth place.

Win Wasn't Easy
Palmer's run for the crown wasn't all roses Sunday. He and Casper, paired in a head-and-head duel for the second straight day, each went out in three-under-par 33s which still left Casper trailing by one shot. On his first nine Palmer collected an eagle on the par-five, 554-yard fifth hole by chipping into the cup from 65 feet away.

Unperturbed, Casper dumped in a six-foot birdie putt right on top of it.

But on the back nine Palmer started out by bogeying the first two holes as Casper went birdie-par to pick up three shots.

Meanwhile, Sanders picked up two with a par and a birdie on the same holes and Stewart shot two pars.

But Palmer's nerves failed to crack. He birdied the 13th and caught even with Casper on the 14th when Bill went into the rough and took a bogey. Then they played it tough right down the line to the 18th.

Cardinals, Reds Split Two Games

CINCINNATI (UPI)—A three-run homer by Stan Musial and the five-hit pitching of Bob Gibson gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-0 victory Sunday in the second game of a double header after the Cincinnati Reds won the opener, 5-4.

Moe Drabowsky matched Gibson's shutout pitching until the ninth inning but lost the game with none out when Julian Javier beat out a bunt and Bill White walked in front of Musial's blast.

Colts, Braves Divide; Spahn Wins 312th Game

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The four-hit pitching of Dick Farrell and the slugging of outfielder Roman Mejias gave the Houston Colts a 9-1 victory over the Milwaukee Braves in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday after the Braves, behind Warren Spahn, had won the first game 3-2.

Mejias, who's been treating Braves pitchers like he owned them this year, hit three home runs good for seven runs batted in the two games. His two homers in the second game accounted for five Colts runs.

Spahn's opening game victory was his third of the season and 312th of a long career. The 41-year-old left-hander gave up just eight hits and drove home one Braves run himself with a single.

Allen's Homer Defeats Tigers In Ninth, 10-7

Minnesota Twins Sweep Three Games

ST. PAUL — MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Bernie Allen's homer in the ninth inning Sunday broke up a tie ballgame and gave the Minnesota Twins a 10-7 victory over the Detroit Tigers and the sweep of a three-game series.

Allen's homer, his fourth of the season, was hit off the second Detroit pitcher, Hank Aguirre. It came with one out and followed a walk to Earl Battey and single by Zoilo Versalles.

QUALITY ALWAYS
We consistently endeavor to handle better than average cars.
We do not try to sell price —
rather we encourage the public to spend a little more and get a

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Tawes Denies Pollack Deal, Hits 'Blackmail'

Recording Played For Reporters

By The Associated Press

Jack Pollack, northwest Baltimore Democratic boss, has played for newsmen a tape recording of a purported patronage agreement he made in 1958 with Gov. Tawes. Pollack played the tape during a news conference in a downtown Baltimore hotel Saturday. Under the agreement, several judgeships were substituted for funds to be used in the governor's Baltimore campaign, Pollack said.

Tawes labelled the recording "political blackmail" and categorically denied it was genuine. "I made no deals with Pollack," he said Saturday night on a special television broadcast in Baltimore.

However, in another statement, issued shortly after the Pollack news conference, Tawes said:

"I am sure every governor who preceded me was at one time or another ... approached on the subject of patronage, and found it practical to discuss the subject, just as I did with political leaders in the state in 1958."

Withdrawal Demanded

Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney and supporter of Democratic gubernatorial candidate David Hume, immediately called for Tawes' resignation and withdrawal from the current gubernatorial race.

At the same time, Hume denied he had ever offered Pollack political patronage in return for campaign support.

"Mr. Pollack may employ his swaggering, bully-boy tactics with Millard Tawes, but I flatly say I doubt his courage to stand against a man who will fight back," Hume said.

Pollack is backing George P. Mahoney, still another Democratic candidate for governor in the May 15 primary.

Sounded Like Them

The tape, which Pollack played several times Saturday for newsmen in a downtown hotel, was a conversation between two men. Veteran reporters present said the voices sounded very much like those of Tawes and Pollack.

At one point, the voice supposed to be Pollack's said, "Look, let me ask you something. I want to give you some money for your campaign. About these appointments you are going to give me, like these appointments that I'm supposed to get, like the chief judge and ..."

The other voice, said to be that of Tawes, replied: "I've got that all down in my safe deposit box. Yes sir."

"Three judges plus the chief judge of the traffic court and chief judge of the police station house and other appointments," Pollack continued.

"Well, whatever we had ... Tawes responded.

'Agreement' Revealed

Pollack then unleashed another surprise attack—a so-called agreement to which signatures reported to be those of Pollack and Tawes were affixed.

The agreement concerned ownership of a safe deposit box, listing Tawes and Pollack as principals and two secondaries.

"The contents shall be used for primary election day expenses in the city of Baltimore," the agreement read.

Pollack countered that the box contained $50,000 which was used in Tawes' behalf in the 1958 campaign.

Tawes said that he had conversations "with many of the political leaders in connection with patronage" during the 1958 campaign, but that "I made it clear that I would appoint only persons of ability and worth to positions in the state government."

He said he had refused Pollack many positions in this government. "His (Pollack's) insatiable demand for patronage has been denied until now," Tawes said. "Based upon my own experience, I am convinced that no governor can live with and keep Pollack's support without betraying the people of this state and without violating his sacred oath of office."

"With the support of thinking Marylanders, I pledge that he and his kind will be kept out of Annapolis during the next four years."

Grand Jury Probe Asked

By The Associated Press

Jack Pollack's tape recording of a purported patronage deal between him and Gov. Tawes in 1958 prompted requests Sunday for a grand jury investigation.

Pollack, northwest Baltimore Democratic boss, played the recording for newsmen in Baltimore Saturday.

Requesting grand jury action were Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney, and James P. Gleason of Silver Spring, candidate for the Republican U. S. Senate nomination.

Pressman is supporting David Hume of Charles County for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. In a separate statement Sunday, Hume demanded that Pollack now play the "Mahoney tape." Pollack is supporting George P. Mahoney of Baltimore County for the 1962 nomination.

Calls For GOP Sweep

The "Tawes-Pollack tape recording scandal" means that only a Republican sweep "can cleanse the state of the stench of Democrat corruption and bossism," Harry Simms, candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senate, said yesterday.

Bi-County Fire Group Plans Convention

Slated June 8 At Frostburg

Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association held a pre-convention meeting yesterday at Deer Park. David Powell, Frostburg, presided. Twenty-six companies were represented and 13 past presidents attended.

The 50th anniversary of the association will be observed at the Bi-County Convention June 8, at Frostburg.

The convention will open at 10 a.m., and the second session will be conducted from 1 to 4 p.m. A joint memorial service is scheduled at 4 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church. The firemen will convene at Frostburg Fire Station and the auxiliary will meet at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

A banquet will be held at the American Legion Home at 5 p.m. and a parade, which will form at 7 p.m. and move at 7:30 p.m., will conclude convention activities. Prizes amounting to $400 will be awarded.

Guests Invited

Convention guests include Howard Keller, Pikesville, president of Maryland State Firemen's Association; Leslie B. Thompson, Damascus, first vice president; Floyd Heimer, Branchville, secretary; Rev. James Minter, Baltimore, chaplain, and Robert C. Byrns, director of Fire Service Extension, College Park. David E. Kirk, second vice president, and William A. Wilson, treasurer, are members of the association.

Mr. Powell appointed checkers for the parade. They are George Comp, Deer Park; John Prichard, Grantsville; Francis Philpot, Shaft; William Smith Sr., Westport; Charles Patterson, Bloomington, and Thomas Storey, Clarysville.

Homer C. Ambrose, McCoole, is chairman of a committee to look into possibility of a life insurance plan for the association. Each fire company is conducting a survey of the ages of members so that a rate can be established.

A total of 600 active firemen is needed to put a group plan into effect, and the policy will cover deaths from any cause. The present policy covers only accidental death. Questions concerning the insurance should be directed to Mr. Ambrose.

Memorial Conducted

A memorial service was conducted for Edward H. Bittner, a member of the Frostburg Fire Company, who died yesterday.

On May 20 the association executive committee will meet at Corriangville Fire Hall to discuss appropriations made by Allegany County Commissioners to the volunteer fire companies. A study is being made so that legislation can be presented at the 1963 session.

Economic Betterment Meeting Set

A public meeting in the interest of economic development of a large section of Allegany County, will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Valley High School auditorium, Lonaconing.

Rep. Charles McC. Mathias has been in communication with civic leaders in Lonaconing and Frostburg and has helped arrange the meeting.

According to William C. Smith of Lonaconing, interested citizens of Frostburg and the Georges Creek region contacted Mr. Mathias on the question.

Specifically, the area wants to know the details involved in obtaining federal economic assistance under the Area Redevelopment Act, which provides a total of $100 million in loans and another $75 million in grants.

In addition to Rep. Mathias, expected to attend are representatives of several state and federal agencies, and Robert M. Sparks, Annapolis, Business Economic Development Agency; William A. Johnson, manager of Industrial Development for the Western Maryland Railway; B. G. Atwood, area development representative for the Potomac Edison Company; John E. Geare, Cumberland, president of the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company; Everett Partridge, also of the UPIDC and Robert E. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce; Seamore Wolfbein of the Manpower Retraining Division of the Department of Labor; a representative of Columbia Gas Company.

Veterans' organizations, service clubs, civic groups, labor groups, officials of the incorporated towns and members of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners have been invited, along with interested individuals and business leaders, Mr. Smith said.

Towson Jaycees Are Awarded Kauffman Prize

Local Chapter Places Third

The Towson Jaycees chapter was presented the Dave Kauffman Memorial Award Saturday night at the annual Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce convention here as the most outstanding of the state's 54 Jaycee chapters.

Catonsville was the runner-up for this honor and Cumberland ranked third.

The North Carroll chapter of Carroll County won the Giessenbier Award for having had the best-balanced program during the past year. Here again Cumberland's Jaycees won a division award but lost out in the sweepstakes.

Richard Wooten of Salisbury was honored as the best Jaycee chapter president in Maryland. Harry W. Shenton of Towson was second and Frederick J. Hill of Cumberland ranked third.

Officers elected Saturday afternoon included Richard McJilton, Dundalk, president; Charles Bolling, Silver Spring, first vice president; James Morrison, Pocomoke City; Patrick Carr, Takoma Park; and William Brannon, Catonsville, all national directors.

Between 600 and 700 persons, including Jaycees and their wives from most of the 54 chapters, attended the convention sessions, all of which were held in the expanded facilities of the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. It was the fourth state Jaycee convention in Cumberland in the past 11 years and was praised as the state's best, according to Mr. Hill. Closing business at the convention yesterday included the designation of Frederick as the site for the 1963 convention.

City Voting Rolls Rise To 9,679

Registration rolls of the City of Cumberland stood at the 9,679 mark on May 1 after 271 new voters were placed on the books during April.

New voters added to the city books during April totaled 271 and included 146 white males, 116 white females, six colored males and three colored females.

The names of 16 voters were removed from the books for reasons of death, moves from the city or duplications in registration records.

Total voters listed on the books on May 1 included 5,060 white males, 4,447 white females, 98 colored males and 74 colored females, for a total of 9,679.

Registration has been heavy recently as the May 15 deadline for registration nears.

Four Are Nabbed In Stolen Car

Two 17-year-old boys and two younger girls were taken into custody near Grantsville yesterday afternoon by State Trooper J. F. Powers in a stolen car during a routine check.

The youngsters, two from Greenbelt, one from Landover and one from Washington, were still at the LaVale State Police barracks about 10:30 o'clock last night but were expected to be released to the custody of their parents. They will be charged with the larceny of the automobile, which had been stolen in Washington.

The boys, a 15-year-old girl and a 14-year-old girl were nabbed by Trooper Powers at 1:43 p.m. yesterday.

Board To Meet

The executive board of SS. Peter & Paul Holy Name Society will meet Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the monastery, Rev. DePaul Ripko, spiritual director, announced.

No Contest:

Register Of Wills Is Orphans' Court Clerk

This is the sixth in a series of articles on some of the most important offices that will be at stake in this year's elections.

The ballot for the May 15 primary election will not list the office of Register of Wills of Allegany County since only one person, James M. Roby, a Republican from Cumberland, is seeking the position.

However, before Mr. Roby can be officially elected to the job, his name must appear on the ballot in the general election in November, and at least one vote must be cast for him.

Mr. Roby is presently serving as Register of Wills of Allegany County, having been named to fill the unexpired term of A. Charles Stewart who died last year. Prior to his appointment, Mr. Roby served as a clerk in the office of the register of wills.

There are no specific requirements a person must meet for the register of wills office other than that he must be a qualified voter in Allegany County.

Four-Year Term

Once Mr. Roby is elected he will serve a four-year term. After his election he must file a bond for $14,000 with the State of Maryland as is prescribed in the Maryland Constitution.

The Maryland Constitution also provides that a register of wills must attend his office daily in person or by deputy unless prevented by sickness, accident or the dispatch of office business. He also must attend each session of the Orphans' Court of Allegany County which meets every Tuesday and Friday at the Court House from 9 a. m. until noon.

The register of wills is required by law to keep a proper docket in his office showing the granting of letters testamentary or of administration and must make a short entry of every paper or proceeding filed in Orphans' Court.

Other Duties

He also must issue summonses, processes and orders of the court, and give out copies under the seal of the court on any proceedings in the office to persons who request them.

The register of wills also serves as clerk to the Orphans' Court and in the recess of the court he may take the probate of wills and act in the official capacity of the court in receiving inventories and accounts of sales and examining vouchers and state guardians' accounts.

However, all of these actions by the register of wills are subject to final passage by the Orphans' Court.

Other duties which the register of wills must perform include collecting all court costs, tax on commissions and inheritance tax; fees which may be due the State of Maryland. He also must furnish the Comptroller of the Treasury of Maryland with a full and accurate account of all fees and receipts collected each month through his office.

Two Deputies, One Clerk

The office of the register of wills also includes two deputies and a clerk, all of whom are employed by the register of wills. Fees collected through this office pay the salary of the register of wills, his employees and for the stationery and other office supplies. After all the salaries and expenses are taken care of, any excess fees are returned annually to the state comptroller.

The Maryland Constitution provides that a register of wills shall be entitled to receive an annual salary of not less than $2,500 and not more than $12,000 annually. In Allegany County, the register of wills receives an annual salary of $7,200.

Many Tour Hospital

A steady stream of people visited Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday between 2 and 5 p. m. for the open house celebrating National Hospital Week, according to Sister Mary Richard, administrator, who said the response was beyond expectations.

Guides for tours through the hospital included Mrs. Mary Carmel Day, Miss Anna Fraley, Mrs. Marietta Early, Mrs. Ruth Webster, Mrs. Helene Nixon, Miss Margaret Lee Lynch, Sister Natalie, Sister Kathleen Marie and Sister John Mildred.

Department heads and employees who explained the hospital facilities included Mrs. Jean Hite, purchasing; Sister Alice Marie, front office; Miss Olive Deering, records; Sister Margaret, pharmacy; Dr. Nicholas Giarratta, pathologist; Lee Lucas, laboratory supervisor; Herbert Smith, bacteriologist; Mrs. Ruthella Simpson, EKG; Miss Christine Williams, central supply; Mrs. Emily Russell and Mrs. Frances Sires, operating room; Miss Mary Margaret King, recovery room; Charles K. Blaich, X-ray; and Joseph T. Grabenstein, food manager.

Firemen Extinguish Hillside Brush Fire

East Side firemen were called to the 1100 block of Frederick Street at 11:57 a. m. yesterday to extinguish a small brush fire on a hillside.

The firemen were back at the station at 12:21 p. m. after extinguishing the blaze with 60 gallons of water.

Boosters Club To Meet

Ridgeley High School Boosters Club will meet today at 7 p. m. at the school to make final plans for the sports banquet Friday. The nominating committee also will report.

1/3 Of County's 1961 Grads Take Further Study

Largest Number Goes To FSTC

Slightly more than one-third of the 1,091 graduates of Allegany County high schools in 1961 are continuing their studies somewhere, according to a survey compiled and released by Jack A. Petry, county supervisor of high schools.

Mr. Petry's figures show that exactly 34 per cent of the boys and 34 per cent of the girl graduates of 1961 are continuing their studies this school year. That is a higher percentage than in other recent years.

The advanced study survey lists figures for each of the eight schools. Allegany High School has the highest percentage continuing studies, with 44 per cent of the girls and 42 per cent of the boys. They trend downward to a low of 13 per cent of the Valley High boys and 11 per cent of the Mt. Savage girls continuing studies.

FSTC Gets Most

As expected, the largest number of 1961 high school graduates, 133, are enrolled at Frostburg State Teachers College. Then come 35 at Catherman's Business School, 24 at Potomac State, 20 at the University of Maryland, 19 at Memorial Hospital, 18 at Allegany Community College, eight at Western Maryland College and five at West Virginia University.

Allegany County graduates of last year also enrolled in some 54 other institutions, but only one or two in each school. Included were University of Pittsburgh, St. Mary's Junior College, West Liberty College, Washington College, Marion College, Medical College of Virginia, Bowie State, Appalachian State, University of Delaware, Morgan State College, Eastern Nazarene College, Madison College, Ashbury College, Richmond Professional Institute, St. Francis College, Roanoke College, Ohio State University, West Liberty Dental Technicians' School, Pratt Institute, Goucher College, Pennsylvania State University, Wittenburg College, Stout State College, Smith College, Parsons Art School, Gettysburg College, and Carnegie Tech.

Other institutions being attended by one or more 1961 high school graduates include Virginia Polytechnic Institute, West Virginia Wesleyan, Bethel College, University of Arizona, Johnston Junior College, Cleveland Embalming School, Washington and Jefferson College, Johns Hopkins University, Duke University, Lehigh Rhyne, Baltimore Art School, Gale Institute, Davis and Elkins College, Franklin and Marshall College, Shenandoah College, Mary Baldwin College, Chatham College, Bridgewater College, Fairmont Teachers College, University of Pennsylvania, Wilmington College, Mt. Carmel Bible School, Juniata College, Alma College, Haverford College, Elizabethtown College, and Shepherd College.

Other Occupations

Mr. Petry's survey did more than just check those graduates who are furthering their studies. He listed eight other classifications as follows:

Professional or semi-professional, agriculture and management, clerical, craftsmen and operatives, domestic service, armed forces, service workers and laborers and unclassified and unknown.

He found that 30 per cent of the boy graduates of 1961 are now in the armed forces, 26 per cent of the girls are in clerical positions, and 18 per cent of the girls in domestic service.

Other percentages for boys included one per cent, professional or semi-professional; two per cent, agriculture; nine per cent, clerical; 11 per cent, craftsmen and operatives; and nine per cent, unclassified and unknown.

Only 4% Unemployed

Mr. Petry stressed that only four per cent of the 1961 graduates who were actively seeking work are classified as unemployed.

The high school supervisor discussed these figures with the guidance counselors at a bi-monthly meeting last week. They are beginning to make plans for a five-year survey next year of the 1958 graduating class.

Guidance counselors meeting with Mr. Petry were John R. Snyder, Paul J. Cuba and Mrs. Patricia H. Butts, all Allegany; Ralph P. Wimer, Fort Hill; Miss Jane H. Grindel and John D. Kelly, Beall; Mrs. Margaret S. Atkinson, Flintstone; James D. Preaskorn, Valley; Mrs. Catherine M. McGiboney, Bruce. Three other counselors unable to attend were Mrs. Dolores C. Morgan, Fort Hill; Raymond R. Pomeroy, Mt. Savage, and Ronald Sheally, Oldtown.

Circus Performs At Fairgo Today

Today is circus day.

The Sells and Gray Circus will present performances at 4 and 8 p.m. today at Fairgo under the sponsorship of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club. The club will earmark all of its profit from the circus to its Sunshine Camp Fund to benefit deserving boys and girls.

Featured in the circus are the Nelson family, champion acrobats and tumblers; 50 artists and performers and a double menagerie from five continents.

Tawes Denies Pollack Deal, Hits 'Blackmail'

Recording Played For Reporters

By The Associated Press
Jack Pollack, northwest Baltimore Democratic boss, has played for newsmen a tape recording of a purported patronage agreement he made in 1958 with Gov. Tawes.

Pollack played the tape during a news conference in a downtown Baltimore hotel Saturday. Under the agreement, several judgeships were substituted for funds to be used in the governor's Baltimore campaign, Pollack said.

Tawes labelled the recording "political blackmail" and categorically denied it was genuine. "I made no deals with Pollack," he said Saturday night on a special television broadcast in Baltimore.

However, in another statement, issued shortly after the Pollack news conference, Tawes said:

"I am sure every governor who preceded me was at one time or another... approached on the subject of patronage, and found it practical to discuss the subject, just as I did with political leaders in the state in 1958."

Withdrawal Demanded

Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney and supporter of Democratic gubernatorial candidate David Hume, immediately called for Tawes' resignation and withdrawal from the current gubernatorial race.

At the same time, Hume denied he had ever offered Pollack political patronage in return for campaign support.

"Mr. Pollack may employ his swaggering, bully-boy tactics with Millard Tawes, but I flatly say I doubt his courage to stand against a man who will fight back," Hume said.

Pollack is backing George P. Mahoney, still another Democratic candidate for governor in the May 15 primary.

Sounded Like Them

The tape, which Pollack played several times Saturday for newsmen in a downtown hotel, was a conversation between two men. Veteran reporters present said the voices sounded very much like those of Tawes and Pollack.

At one point, the voice supposed to be Pollack's said, "Look, let me ask you something. I want to give you some money for your campaign. About these appointments you are going to give me, like these appointments that I'm supposed to get, like the chief judge and..."

The other voice, said to be that of Tawes, replied: "I've got that all down in my safe deposit box. Yes sir."

"Three judges plus the chief judge of the traffic court and chief judge of the police station house and other appointments," Pollack continued.

"Well, whatever we had..." Tawes responded.

'Agreement' Revealed

Pollack then unleashed another surprise attack—a so-called agreement to which signatures reported to be those of Pollack and Tawes were affixed.

The agreement concerned ownership of a safe deposit box, listing Tawes and Pollack as principals and two secondaries.

"The contents shall be used for primary election day expenses in the city of Baltimore," the agreement read.

Pollack contended that the box contained $50,000 which was used in Tawes' behalf in the 1958 campaign.

Tawes said that he had conversations "with many of the political leaders in connection with patronage" during the 1958 campaign, but that "I made it clear that I would appoint only persons of ability and worth to positions in the state government."

He said he had refused Pollack many positions in the government.

"His (Pollack's) insatiable demand for patronage has been denied until now," Tawes said. "Based upon my own experience, I am convinced that no governor can live with and keep Pollack's support without betraying the people of this state and without violating his sacred oath of office."

"With the support of thinking Marylanders, I pledge that he and his kind will be kept out of Annapolis during the next four years."

Grand Jury Probe Asked

By The Associated Press

Jack Pollack's tape recording of a purported patronage deal between him and Gov. Tawes in 1958 prompted requests Sunday for a grand jury investigation.

Pollack, northwest Baltimore Democratic boss, played the recording for newsmen in Baltimore Saturday.

Requesting grand jury action were Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney, and James P. Gleason of Silver Spring, candidate for the Republican U. S. Senate nomination.

Pressman is supporting David Hume of Charles County for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. In a separate statement Sunday, Hume demanded that Pollack now play the "Mahoney tape." Pollack is supporting George P. Mahoney of Baltimore County for the 1962 nomination.

Calls For GOP Sweep

The "Tawes-Pollack tape recording scandal" means that only a Republican sweep "can cleanse the state of the stench of Democrat corruption and bossism," Harry Simms, candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senate, said yesterday.

As St. Mary's Buildings Are Dedicated

Most Rev. Lawrence J. Shehan, archbishop of Baltimore, is shown, center rear, being escorted across the grounds of St. Mary's parish by altar boys and priests just before the start of dedication ceremonies for the new convent, school and rectory of St. Mary's Catholic Church. After the dedication ceremonies, Archbishop Shehan and other clergy and brothers attended dinner at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Visiting nuns were guests of the faculty of the school.

Bi-County Fire Group Plans Convention

Slated June 8 At Frostburg

Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association held a pre-convention meeting yesterday at Deer Park. David Powell, Frostburg, presided. Twenty-six companies were represented and 13 past presidents attended.

The 50th anniversary of the association will be observed at the Bi-County Convention June 8, at Frostburg.

The convention will open at 10 a.m., and the second session will be conducted from 1 to 4 p.m. A joint memorial service is scheduled at 4 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church. The firemen will convene at Frostburg Fire Station and the auxiliary will meet at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

A banquet will be held at the American Legion Home at 5 p.m., and a parade, which will form at 7 p.m. and move at 7:30 p.m., will conclude convention activities. Prizes amounting to $400 will be awarded.

Guests Invited

Convention guests include Howard Kellar, Pikeville, president of Maryland State Firemen's Association; Leslie B. Thompson, Damascus, first vice president; Floyd Heimer, Branchville, secretary; Rev. James Minter, Baltimore, chaplain; and Robert C. Byrnes, director of Fire Service Extension, College Park. David E. Kirk, second vice president, and William A. Wilson, treasurer, are members of the association.

Mr. Powell appointed checkers for the parade. They are George Comp, Deer Park; John Prichard, Grantsville; Francis Philpot, Shaft; William Smith Sr., Westport; Charles Pattison, Bloomington; and Thomas Storey, Clarysville.

Homer C. Ambrose, McCoole, is chairman of a committee to look into possibility of a life insurance plan for the association. Each fire company is conducting a survey of the ages of members so that a rate can be established. A total of 600 active firemen is needed to put a group plan into effect, and the policy will cover deaths from any cause. The present policy covers only accidental death. Questions concerning the insurance should be directed to Mr. Ambrose.

Memorial Conducted

A memorial service was conducted for Edward H. Bittner, a member of the Frostburg Fire Company, who died yesterday.

On May 20 the association executive committee will meet at Corranville Fire Hall to discuss appropriations made by Allegany County Commissioners to the volunteer fire companies. A study is being made so that legislation can be presented at the 1963 session.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Magglio, Wheaton, announce the birth of a daughter there April 19. The mother is the former Joan Kline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kline, Paw Paw.

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Leo D. Detrick Sr., 96 Knobley Road, Ridgeley, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. Flanagan, RD 1, Ridgeley, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis K. Barnard, 214 Wills Creek Avenue, a daughter Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Mountain, RD 2, city, a son Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lee Ritchie, 145 North Mechanic Street, a daughter Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Whetsel, RD 4, city, a daughter Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo R. Troutman, Wellersburg, Pa., a son yesterday.

Economic Betterment Meeting Set

A public meeting in the interest of economic development of a large section of Allegany County, will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Valley High School auditorium, Lonaconing.

Rep. Charles McC. Mathias has been in communication with civic leaders in Lonaconing and Frostburg and has helped arrange the meeting.

According to William C. Smith of Lonaconing, interested citizens of Frostburg and the Georges Creek region contacted Mr. Mathias on the question.

Specifically, the area wants to know the details involved in obtaining federal economic assistance under the Area Redevelopment Act, which provides a total of $100 million in loans and another $75 million in grants.

In addition to Rep. Mathias, expected to attend are representatives of several state and federal agencies, and Robert M. Sparks, Annapolis, Business Economic Development Agency; William A. Johnson, manager of Industrial Development for the Western Maryland Railway; B. G. Atwood, area development representative for the Potomac Edison Company; John E. Geare, Cumberland, president of the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company; Everett Partridge, also of the UPIDC and Robert E. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce; Seamon Wolfbean of the Manpower Retraining Division of the Department of Labor; a representative of Columbia Gas Company.

Veterans' organizations, service clubs, civic groups, labor groups, officials of the incorporated towns and members of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners have been invited, along with interested individuals and business leaders, Mr. Smith said.

Towson Jaycees Are Awarded Kauffman Prize

Local Chapter Places Third

The Towson Jaycees chapter presented the Dave Kauffman Memorial Award Saturday night at the annual Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce convention here as the most outstanding of the state's 54 Jaycee chapters.

Catonsville was the runner-up for this honor and Cumberland ranked third.

The North Carroll chapter of Carroll County won the Giessemer Award for having had the best-balanced program during the past year. Here again Cumberland's Jaycees won a division award but lost out in the sweepstakes.

Richard Wooten of Salisbury was honored as the best Jaycee chapter president in Maryland; Harry W. Shenton of Towson was second and Frederick J. Hill of Cumberland ranked third.

Officers elected Saturday afternoon included Richard McJilton, Dundalk, president; Charles Bolling, Silver Spring, first vice president; James Morrison, Pocomoke City; Patrick Carr, Takoma; Langley, and William Brannon, Catonsville, all national directors.

Between 600 and 700 persons, including Jaycees and their wives from most of the 54 chapters, attended the convention sessions, all of which were held in the expanded facilities of the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. It was the fourth state Jaycee convention in Cumberland in the past 11 years and was praised as the state's best, according to Mr. Hill. Closing business at the convention yesterday included the designation of Frederick as the site for the 1963 convention.

Barber, committee member, on final plans for the event. The dinner will be held Wednesday, May 9, at 6:30 p.m. in Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club and will feature an address by Dr. Lyman G. Bonner, director of development for Hercules Powder Company.

No Contest:

Register Of Wills Is Orphans' Court Clerk

This is the sixth in a series of articles on some of the most important offices that will be at stake in this year's elections.

The ballot for the May 15 primary election will not list the office of Register of Wills of Allegany County since only one person, James M. Roby, a Republican from Cumberland, is seeking the position.

However, before Mr. Roby can be officially elected to the job, his name must appear on the ballot in the general election in November, and at least one vote must be cast for him.

Mr. Roby is presently serving as Register of Wills of Allegany County, having been named to fill the unexpired term of A. Charles Stewart who died last year. Prior to his appointment, Mr. Roby served as a clerk in the office of the register of wills.

There are no specific requirements a person must meet for the register of wills office other than that he must be a qualified voter in Allegany County.

Four-Year Term

Once Mr. Roby is elected he will serve a four-year term. After his election he must file a bond for $14,000 with the State of Maryland as is prescribed in the Maryland Constitution.

The Maryland Constitution also provides that a register of wills must attend his office daily in person or by deputy unless prevented by sickness, accident or the dispatch of office business. He also must attend each session of the Orphans' Court of Allegany County which meets every Tuesday and Friday at the Court House from 9 a.m. until noon.

The register of wills is required by law to keep a proper docket in his office showing the granting of letters testamentary or of administration and must make a short entry of every paper or proceeding filed in Orphans' Court.

Other Duties

He also must issue summonses, processes and orders of the court, and give out copies under the seal of the court on any proceedings in the office to persons who request them.

The register of wills also serves as clerk to the Orphans' Court and in the recess of the court he may take the probate of wills and act in the official capacity of the court in receiving inventories and accounts of sales and examining vouchers and state guardians' and administrators' accounts. However, all of these actions by the register of wills are subject to final passage by the Orphans' Court.

Other duties which the register of wills must perform include collecting all court costs, tax on commissions and inheritance taxes which may be due the State of Maryland. He also must furnish the Comptroller of the Treasury of Maryland with a full and accurate account of all fees and receipts collected each month through his office.

Two Deputies, One Clerk

The office of the register of wills also includes two deputies and a clerk, all of whom are employed by the register of wills.

Fees collected through this office pay the salary of the register of wills, his employees and for the stationery and other office supplies. After all the salaries and expenses are taken care of, any excess fees are returned annually to the state comptroller.

The Maryland Constitution provides that a register of wills shall be entitled to receive an annual salary of not less than $2,500 and not more than $12,000 annually. In Allegany County, the register of wills receives an annual salary of $7,200.

Many Tour Hospital

A steady stream of people visited Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday between 2 and 5 p.m. for the open house celebrating National Hospital Week, according to Sister Mary Richard, administrator, who said the response was beyond expectations.

Guides for tours through the hospital included Mrs. Mary Carmel Day, Miss Anna Fraley, Mrs. Marietta Early, Mrs. Ruth Webster, Mrs. Helene Nixon, Miss Margaret Lee Lynch, Sister Natalie, Sister Kathleen Marie and Sister John Mildred.

Department heads and employees who explained the hospital facilities included Mrs. Jean Hite, purchasing; Sister Alice Marie, front office; Miss Olive Deering, records; Sister Margaret, pharmacy; Dr. Nicholas Giarratta, pathologist; Lee Lucas, laboratory supervisor; Herbert Smith, bacteriologist; Mrs. Ruthella Simpson, EKG; Miss Christine Williams, central supply; Mrs. Emily Russell and Mrs. Frances Sires, operating room; Miss Mary Margaret King, recovery room; Charles K. Blauch, X-ray; and Joseph T. Grabenstein, food manager.

Firemen Extinguish Hillside Brush Fire

East Side firemen were called to the 1100 block of Frederick Street at 11:57 a.m. yesterday to extinguish a small brush fire on a hillside.

The firemen were back at the station at 12:21 p.m. after extinguishing the blaze with 60 gallons of water.

Boosters Club To Meet

Ridgeley High School Boosters Club will meet today at 7 p.m. at the school to make final plans for the sports banquet Friday. The nominating committee also will report.

1/3 Of County's 1961 Grads Take Further Study

Largest Number Goes To FSTC

Slightly more than one-third of the 1,091 graduates of Allegany County high schools in 1961 are continuing their studies somewhere, according to a survey compiled and released by Jack A. Petry, county supervisor of high schools.

Mr. Petry's figures show that exactly 34 per cent of the boys and 34 per cent of the girls graduates of 1961 are continuing their studies this school year. That is a higher percentage than in other recent years.

The advanced study survey lists figures for each of the eight schools. Allegany High School has the highest percentage continuing studies, with 44 per cent of the girls and 42 per cent of the boys. They trend downward to a low of 13 per cent of the Valley High boys and 11 per cent of the Mt. Savage girls continuing studies.

FSTC Gets Most

As expected, the largest number of 1961 high school graduates, 133, are enrolled at Frostburg State Teachers College. Then come 35 at Catherman's Business School, 24 at Potomac State, 20 at the University of Maryland, 19 at Memorial Hospital, 18 at Allegany Community College, eight at Western Maryland College and five at West Virginia University.

Allegany County graduates of last year also enrolled in some 54 other institutions, but only one or two in each school. Included were University of Pittsburgh, St. Mary's Junior College, West Liberty College, Washington College, Marion College, Medical College of Virginia, Bowie State, Appalachian State, University of Delaware, Morgan State College, Eastern Nazarene College, Madison College, Ashbury College, Richmond Professional Institute, St. Francis College, Roanoke College, Ohio State University, West Liberty Dental Technicians' School, Pratt Institute, Goucher College, Pennsylvania State University, Wittenburg College, Stout State College, Smith College, Parsons Art School, Gettysburg College, and Carnegie Tech.

Other institutions being attended by one or more 1961 high school graduates include Virginia Polytechnic Institute, West Virginia Wesleyan, Bethel College, University of Arizona, Johnstown Junior College, Cleveland Enbaling School, Washington and Jefferson College, Johns Hopkins University, Duke University, Lenore Rhyne, Baltimore Art School, Gale Institute, Davis and Elkins College, Franklin and Marshall College, Shenandoah College, Mary Baldwin College, Chatham College, Bridgewater College, Fairmont Teachers College, University of Pennsylvania, Wilmington College, Mt. Carmel Bible School, Juniata College, Alma College, Haverford College, Elizabethbeth College, and Shepherd College.

Other Occupations

Mr. Petry's survey did more than just check those graduates who are furthering their studies. He listed eight other classifications as follows:

Professional or semi-professional, agriculture and management, clerical, craftsmen and operatives, domestic service, armed forces, service workers and laborers and unclassified and unknown.

He found that 30 per cent of the boy graduates of 1961 are now in the armed forces, 26 per cent of the girls are in clerical positions, and 18 per cent of the girls in domestic service.

Other percentages for boys included one per cent, professional or semi-professional; two per cent, agriculture; nine per cent, clerical; 11 per cent, craftsmen and operatives; and nine per cent, unclassified and unknown.

Only 4% Unemployed

Mr. Petry stressed that only four per cent of the 1961 graduates who were actively seeking work are classified as unemployed.

The high school supervisor discussed these figures with the guidance counselors at a bi-monthly meeting last week. They are beginning to make plans for a five-year survey next year of the 1958 graduating class.

Guidance counselors meeting with Mr. Petry were John R. Snyder, Paul J. Cuba and Mrs. Patricia H. Butts, all Allegany; Ralph P. Wimer, Fort Hill; Miss Jane H. Grindel and John D. Kelly, Beall; Mrs. Margaret S. Atkinson, Flintstone; James D. Preaskorn, Valley; Mrs. Catherine M. McGiboney, Bruce. Three other counselors unable to attend were Mrs. Dolores C. Morgan, Fort Hill; Raymond R. Pomeroy, Mt. Savage, and Ronald Sheally, Oldtown.
